LLOYD GEORGE WARNS ALLIES

Declares Great German Attack Is Near

ABUSED BY WIFE, SAYS LUSK GIRL

School Teacher Tells of Dramatic Interview With Mrs. Roberts That Ended in Tragedy

By International News Service.

Waushesha, Wis., May 24.—"She hurled abuses at me and then—then—I don't remember what happened."

"Did you intend to shoot Mrs. Roberts?"

"Never, never, never," cried Miss Lusk. "I intended all the time to shoot myself."

Thus came to a climax today the dramatic story of the slaying of Mrs. Mary Newman Roberts as told by Grace Lusk.

She was doubled up on the stand as if suffering internal pain. Her eyes were tightly closed and her lips were locked in an effort at control.

"I have just two pictures," went on Miss Lusk in her strangely strained voice. 'One picture is when I was writing at the desk after it all happened. The second was when I took the revolver. I fired one shot out of the window because the revolver wouldn't always work."

CROWD LISTENS SPELLBOUND.

The tale of the shooting as told by the psychology teacher gripped the courtroom as no other event of the trial had. The witness was left to her own ability to tell the story. Only

REPORT FAVORABLY ON GENERAL MARCH

Washington, May 24.—The Senate Military Affairs Committee this afternoon voted to report favorably on the following nominations:

To be general, Maj. Gen. Peyton C. March; to be general by brevet, Gen. Tasker H. Bliss; to be chief of the coast artillery with rank of Major General, Brig. Gen. Frank W. Coe. To be a brigadier general in the regular army, Brig. Gen. John D. Barrette of the national army.

SENATE TO CONDUCT ITS OWN AERO PROBE

Washington, May 24.—Disregarding Charles Evans Hughes request for a free hand in investigating the aircraft situation, members of the Senate Military Affairs Committee virtually agreed today to conduct its own inquiry.

Senator Thomas of Colorado, chairman of the aircraft sub-committee will confer with Mr. Hughes tomorrow in an effort to reach an understanding under which the two investigations can be conducted without conflicting.

SHIPPING IN HARBOR FLIES COLORS OF ITALY

Many American and allied ships in the harbor today observed Italian day by flying the Italian flag and by decorating with appropriate bunting. The fishing vessels, particularly those of the Sicilian fishermen, were also decorated in honor of the occasion.

Admiral in Charge of U. S. Navy Abroad Says Hopes of Germans Are Dashed

London, May 24.—"We have the submarine virtually beaten. Co-ordination between the fleets of the allies is a done job. German diver crews are pretty sick and are getting sicker every day.

Thrusting out a fighting jaw and snapping his teeth with a determined click, Admiral Sims, commander-in-chief of the American naval forces in European waters, thus summed up the naval situation to me today in the Naval building in Grosvenor Gardens.

The admiral was loud in his praise of the allied sailors, and declared that the harmony between them and the Yankee jacks could not be more cordial.

"The navies of the allies are working together as comrades in practically all areas of naval operations," said Admiral Sims.

"Their mixed forces are under the direction of a senior allied commander. There is no continuous naval front, but there are several fronts. Each one has its naval Foch, and the work of all is co-ordinated by the allied naval council.

GLORIOUS EXPLOITS.

"The recent glorious exploits of the British navy at Zeebrugge and Ostend blocked these submarine holes at least for the time being. I am sure that there is no American but who is thrilled to hear of these gallant deeds—unsurpassed even in the annals of the British navy.

"We have mastered the submarine vaunt that it would starve England and proven it false. The boast that it would stop American forces from reaching the battlefields in France has been proven foolish. With the British navy, the French navy and the Italian navy the American navy

BAVARIANS ARE NOW FACING U. S. TROOPS

With the American Army in France, May 24.—German troops opposite the Americans on the Toul front have departed for the Picardy battle front and have been replaced by the Eighth Bavarian reserves.

The last twenty-four hour period has been the quietest since the Americans entered the first line on the Toul sector.

Only thirty-five enemy shells were thrown and there has been very little aerial activity.

JOHN DREW'S NEPHEW SHOT DOWN IN AIR FIGHT

New York, May 24. — Corporal R. Sidney Drew, nephew of John Drew, the actor, and a member of the French Aviation Corps, has been shot down in a fight with a German plane, according to advices received here today. Draw descended within the German lines, and it is believed he is a prisoner.

GOOD RED CROSS NEWS! FUND IS PILING UP

New England's first victory of the Red Cross campaign was recorded today when the Eastern Massachusetts district went "over the top" on its million dollar quota, rolling up a figure of $1,006,000, with more to come.

This district includes practically all the eastern part of the State except Boston and its suburbs, as far as Worcester County. The population of the district is roughly 1,500,000, so the figure already obtained represents about 66 cents per capita.

New England has raised to date, according to the best available figures, $4,302,630. It's quota is about $7,000,000. The record for the nation at large is somewhat better than this, for Washington dispatches give as the total subscription $74,269,825. Greater New York heads the list with contributions of $16,294,536.

All America Pays Tribute to Italy

Italy and America—a pledge across the sea!
Today is Italy-America Day.

Boston, with her thousands of residents of Italian nativity or descent, is taking part in a nation-wide celebration of the day which marks the third anniversary of Italy's entry into the world war on the side of the allies. President Wilson himself urged this recognition of the day.

Flowers were worn in honor of the anniversary.

The Italian colors, red, white and green, were seen in flags and banners on public and private buildings.

The nation-wide observance of the anniversary is designed to give added strength in this crisis of civilization to the bond of kinship between America and our southern ally, the land which produced the discoverer of America.

It is designed to recall and emphasize the fearful sacrifices that Italy has made, first in breaking allegiance with Germany, and next in sustaining a gallant role under most adverse conditions.

It is designed to combat and nullify the crafty and continuous German propaganda, which nearly put Italy out of the war in the great Teutonic drive last year and which still

RICH MAN'S SON SHOT AS WIFE SLAYER

By International News Service.

Salt Lake City, May 24.—Howard Weweese, son of a wealthy Canyon City, Colo., orchardist, Dall Deweese, who is a hunter for the Smithsonian Institute and one of the most prominent men in Colorado, was executed at 6:55 a. m. for the murder of his wife here September 29, 1916.

Deweese proclaimed his innocence. Intercession from State officials of Colorado, from Colorado Senators and many prominent men in the West failed to save the man. An attempt of the father, through his attorney, to prove the sons sanity, several hours before the execution failed.

Deweese, although the son of a wealthy man, was given the name of "King of Diamond Thieves."

He eloped with Mrs. Harry Fisher, wife of a New York haberdasher, early in 1916, and following her divorce at Reno, married her. He was convicted of killing her but two months after the marriage.

AWAIT HUN BLOW WITH CONFIDENCE

By International News Service.

Edinburgh, May 24.—"The allies still have a time of great anxiety before them—it is a race between Von Hindenburg and President Wilson," declared Premier Lloyd George in a speech here today, when the freedom of the city was conferred on him.

Mr. Lloyd George said that German submarines were now being sunk faster than they were being built, while British merchant ships were being constructed faster than they could be destroyed.

The Premier warned the people that the allies were on the eve of a great German attack, but added that "those who know the prospects are confident of the result."

"We are entering what may be the decisive struggle of the war, but it is stimulating and encouraging to know we are entering it with good heart and clear conscience," said the Prime Minister. "Had I thought that by any safe and honorable means we could have averted the struggle at the start or brought it to an earlier termination, I should feel now not only burdened with anxiety, but weighed down with guilt as well. I can honestly say that the government has not neglected any possible means for finding whether there was an honorable exit from the war's horrors and tragedies."

As to the submarine situation, Mr. Lloyd George said:

"We are now sinking German submarines faster than the enemy is building them. And we are building merchant ships faster than the enemy can sink them.

"In April we created a record in the destruction of submarines.

'The British merchant marine is the windpipe of the allies' armies," declared the premier. "Cut that and the forces of the allies will cease to breathe. That is the problem we were confronted with.

"We had to re-organize shipping, reduce our own needs, cut down imports by millions of tons and increase our home products in ore, timber and food. Since 1916 we have increased our tillage by 4,000,000 acres. We have doubled the shipping output of 1916, and this year we hope to treble or quadruple it.

"Russia's defection left a gap that America has not yet spanned," continued the Prime Minister. "Therefore, Great Britain, France and Italy have to defend that gap until America has reconstructed the span."

The Premier told of his gratification over the unification of the army command in France, saying that effective use is now being made of the whole allied forces, and that it had added mightily to the allied fighting strength.

General Foch's abilities were highly lauded.

BRITISH RAID ENEMY NEAR LA BASSEE

London, May 24.—The German lines southwest of La Bassee were successfully raided by the British last night, the War Office announced today. Some prisoners were captured. The text of the report follows:

"As the result of an enemy raid yesterday north of Hill No. 70 (north of Lens), a few British soldiers are missing.

"Early Thursday night the enemy attempted another raid against a British post in the Avelay Wood (north of Albert), but was driven off.

"Southwest of La Bassee we carried out a successful raid at midnight and captured some prisoners. More prisoners were taken in a patrol encounter north of the Ypres-Comines Canal (in Belgium).

"German artillery was active during the night west of Lens and in the neighborhood of Givenchy and Festubert.

"Our positions in the sector of the Nieppe forest (Flanders front) were bombarded with gas shells."

"We penetrated enemy lines southeast of Coucy, in the Champagne district, and in the Vosges mountains, capturing fifteen prisoners," the French War Office announced today.

"There has been intermittent artillery firing at several points."

BRITISH PRINCE HERE ON WAY TO JAPAN

By International News Service.

Washington, May 24.—Major, His Royal Highness, Prince Arthur of Connaught, Knight of the Garter, Knight of the Thistle, personal aide-de-camp to King George V. of England, and cousin of the King, arrived at an Atlantic port today, it was announced by the State Department. He is on his way to Japan on a special mission from the King to the Emperor of Japan.

Prince Arthur's mission to Japan includes the presentation of a field marshal's baton to the Japanese Emperor, recently made a field marshal of the British army by King George.

BRITISH FLYERS AGAIN DROP TONS OF BOMBS ON GERMAN CITIES

Allied Supremacy in Air on the West Front a Hard Blow to Hindenburg

Paris, May 24.—American air squadrons participated in the defence of Paris when the Germans made their raid yesterday morning. French newspapers today were enthusiastic in their praise of the Americans, saying that the Germans were unwilling to give battle.

London, May 25.—American aviators are operating with British airmen on the Flanders battle front.

This was revealed by the German official statement which said

"Three American airplanes were brought down on the Lys battlefield."

Heretofore aerial engagements in which Americans participated were reported only from the Toul and Luneville sectors, some distance below Verdun. Apparently the American army which reached Marshal Haig on the Flanders line some time ago was supplied with its own aerial forces.

British flyers again raided Mannheim, on the Rhine, and also dropped bombs on Kreusewald and Metz-Sablona, it is officially announced.

The official statement on the raid follows:

"Our aviators raiding Mannheim dropped twenty-four heavy bombs on a chlorine factory. Two large fires resulted. The blackened girders of the buildings set afire by us last night were clearly visible in the moonlight.

"Four tons of bombs were dropped by us on the important electrical station of Kreusewald, east of Saarbruecken. A boiler house was hit, a large cloud of steam resulting from the explosion, shot up. Our machines returned safely.

"The Metz-Sablona station was bombarded by our bombing machines, and explosions were observed. Our machines, although vigorously attacked by the enemy's anti-aircraft gunfire, returned safely."

Sixteen machines were brought down by the British. Eighteen tons of bombs were dropped by British raiding machines. An official statement on aviation says:

ATTACK AERODROMES.

"The enemy's flyers and aerodromes were attacked. Eighteen tons of bombs were dropped by our aviators. Thirteen German machines were brought down, two others were driven out of control, and another hostile machine was shot down within our lines.

"Three of our machines are missing. Eleven tons were dropped on hostile aerodromes, on the docks at Bruges, and billets on the Somme district. Direct hits set a train afire."

The raid on Mannheim is the second within forty-eight hours on the big industrial centre on the Rhine.

Paris reported that forty-eight tons of bombs were dropped by French flyers behind the German lines.

Dispatches show conclusively that in the present stage of the situation on the western battle front the airplane is the weapon of the hour. There is no question that supremacy in the air now rests with the Allies, but the Germans are working desperately to eliminate this advantage, realizing that supremacy in the air means supremacy at arms as well.

BOMB SUPPLY DEPOTS.

It is more than ever before evident that probably the chief reason why the supreme drive has not yet been renewed by Ludendorff is that the German armies have been blinded by the failure of their airplanes to see what is going on behind the allied lines.

While German planes seldom get back of the Allied lines for reconnaissance, Allied aviators are making frequent trips over the back areas of the Germans, bombing supply depots and breakings up the concentration of troops.

Entente air raids behind the German lines in Belgium are "increasing in frequency," the German War Office announced. It claims also that Germany flyers blew up an ammunition dump northwest of Abbeville.

TIDEWATER COAL IS COMING MORE FREELY

Receipts of coal in Boston have been far above normal this week, and if the heavy shipments continue over a much longer period there will be a less pessimistic feeling regarding prospects for the coming Winter. The receipts today totalled 41,000 tons, and on Monday 78,000 tons came in. The total for the week to date is about 175,000 tons, about one-fourth of which is anthracite. Most of the coal brought in is for corporation use.

has co-operated, and I can safely say we are well on the road to winning.

GERMANY'S HOPE FADES.

"We shall do the job completely. Germany's hope of crippling the allies at sea is rapidly fading. When the German people know it has faded it will not be an easy job for the Kaiser and his Junkers to lead them forward into a successive and hopeless shambles of blood and misery.

"The extremely effective way in which we have been able to co-operate with our naval allies is the best evidence that a united command is entirely feasible.

"There has been no question of precedence between us. If three American destroyers, say, and three British go out on a mission the senior officer is in command. If he is British he takes charge of all, if American he is in command of the entire flotilla. There has not been a single instance in which allied officers and sailors have not worked in utter harmony and I am glad to say our own American officers and men have met them with as free a hand."

Sitting down in an arm chair before a big desk piled with papers the American admiral then smiled quizzically and said:

NOT AN EASY TASK.

"There is just one thing more. Because we have been fairly successful and perhaps because a large proportion of Americans are not seafaring people I am told there is an idea that American sailors are having rather an easy time of it. Not so. Our boys are taking turn about with the allies' navies. We do not have their age nor their traditions of victories on the blue, but we have as gallant men, and though their deeds will not be known until after the war is won, I can assure you that all American citizens may well be proud of them.

"In the long days and nights in calm and storm they do their work beside the best of allied seamen. They have earned the praise of their allied comrades. Should it come they will die as nobly as the best."

The foregoing is the first interview given out by Admiral Sims since he was put in command of the American naval forces in European waters.

Fugitive Leader of "Death Battalion" in New York

By International News Service.

New York, May 24.—A huddled figure was rushed from an arriving Pennsylvania train to a waiting cab. It was Mme. Leona Butchkareff, bravest among brave women, whose "Battalion of Death" dismayed the Germans on Russian battlefields. Madame Butchkareff arrived here from New York.

The great Russian leader's arrival in New York terminates a series of dramatic adventures in her escape from Russia. Friends of the Kerensky rule smuggled her from Moscow to Vladivostok. The Bolshevik regime had set a price on her head, and the troops closely pursued her. To avoid them she disguised herself first as a peasant woman and later as a man.

Arriving at Vladivostok, she took passage on a British ship. She was transferred to another ship bound for the United States.

British Aviators Bomb Austrian Naval Base at Cattaro

Rome, May 24.—A British air squadron has successfully bombed the Austrian naval base at Cattaro, said the following foreign official announcement:

"On the twentieth a British air squadron sucessfully bombed the Austrian seaplane and submarine base at Cattaro, setting fire to piers and barracks. Despite violent fire from anti-aircraft guns all the machines returned safely.

50 SHOT IN HUN MUTINY AT DVINSK

By International News Service.

London, May 24.—Reviewing the recently reported mutiny of German divisions at Dvinsk, on the eve of their transfer to the west front, the military correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company says fifty soldiers were shot and 1,000 were imprisoned. There was also a mutiny at Wisemberg, he says, in which some officers were killed, and others arrested.

The correspondent contrasts with this the high morale of the allied armies, as especially proven in attacks the past week. He adds:

"Despite the delay, I believe in the reality of the impending offensive, because it is impossible that the German high command can back down, in view of public opinion. But I also believe in the valor of our leaders, and in the heroism and admirable morale of our troops, as well as in the superiority of our constantly growing aviation. Those are three factors which justify us in awaiting the blow with serenity."

President Wilson Sends Tribute of America to the People of Italy

I AM sure I am speaking for the people of the United States in sending to the Italian people warm fraternal greetings upon this the anniversary of the entrance of Italy into this great war in which there is being fought out once for all the irrepressible conflict between free self-government and the dictation of force. The people of the United States have looked with profound interest and sympathy upon the efforts and sacrifices of the Italian people, are deeply and sincerely interested in the present and future security of Italy, and are glad to find themselves associated with a people to whom they are bound by so many personal and intimate ties in a struggle whose object is liberation, freedom, the rights of men and nations to live their own lives and determine their own fortunes, the rights of the weak, as well as the strong, and the maintenance of justice by the irresistible force of free nations leagued together in the defence of mankind. With ever increasing resolution and force we shall continue to stand together in this sacred common cause. America salutes the gallant Kingdom of Italy, and bids her Godspeed.—Message of President Wilson cabled to Rome and to be read to the Italian people throughout Italy today.

BOSTON ITALIANS PAY TRIBUTE TO U. S. FOR HONOR TO ALLY

Prominent Boston men, native Italians and their American-born sons, today declare that the celebration in America of the third anniversary of Italy's entrance into the war will have the effect of knitting closer together the ties that bind the two countries and of striking an effective blow at German propaganda.

Here are the views of some of the best known Italian business and professional men, clergymen and also a representative of the Italian army:

FRANK LEVERONI, judge of the Juvenile Court:

The Germanic hordes are again beating at the gates of Italy like unto their ancestors to destroy and lay waste the priceless treasures which belong to the entire world. Italy's natural aspiration has been re-echoed by the greatest leaders of the allies and recognized in eloquent terms by President Wilson. It is of interest to us Americans to remember the words of Lincoln when during the darkest period of the Civil War he said that "at no stage in this unhappy fraternal war, in which we are only endeavoring to save and strengthen the foundations of our national unity, has the king or the people of Italy faltered in addressing to us the language of respect, confidence and friendship", and later added: "I pray God to have Italy in his holy keeping and vouchsafe and crown with success her noble aspirations."

REV. VICTOR GREGORI, C. S. C. B., Pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart:

We Italians are truly grateful to the President of the United States for the great honor he has accorded us in setting aside the 24th day of May for the celebration of Italian Day, in order to bring more vividly to mind the wonderful heroism which Italy has always displayed in this great conflict.

Reminiscences of our dear native land are fondly dwelt upon, and the wonderful pages of its history stir us up to a high degree of enthusiasm.

America, dearly beloved country by adoption, is staunchly standing by Italy and in all sorts of ways is lending a helping hand.

In every true Italian's heart there is a warm and tender spot not only for the dear land of our birth, but also for this great country which has been a most wonderful opportunity for betterment for so many and has so cordially extended one and all a welcome hand.

VITTORIO ORLANDINI, lieutenant in the Royal Italian Grenadiers:

Let the Italians in this country and at home understand that America is fully cognizant of the national and moral aims of Italy in this war. Let us tell them that this country does not underate the heroic deeds of her army or the tremendous sacrifices of her civil population.

Let us tell them that America is throwing the full weight of her resources on the side of all the Allies—and we need not feel the slightest anxiety as to the weakening of Italy's activities in the war.

Firm in the belief of the full righteousness of her cause—the cause of humanity—Italy will hold her place by the side of her Allies while there is one man or a gun left to stand up against the murderous march of the Huns.

REV. HENRY C. SARTORIO, Pastor of Christ Church:

The keynote of President Wilson's message for today—Italian Day is to celebrate Italy's entrance into this war to make democracy safe for the world. When a man remembers a friend's birthday it is a good sign that his friendship is cemented with sincere love.

By declaring war Italy ceased to be a Summer resort, a sky repainted with Prussian blue for international honeymoons, a gay market place where one could buy and sell, steal and bargain," and became a nation that chose to stand for justice, honor and democracy against might, violence and autocracy. The decision of will and conscience accomplished by the Italians has mdae Italy a sister to America.

The Italian flag today will proclaim to America that on the Piave line the young lads of Italy are cheerfully holding on, knowing that the growing army is at hand and the day of right reckoning near.

DR. ROCCO BRINDISI:

I believe that Italy-America day will more firmly cement the bonds of friendship between the United States and Italy. It is a nice compliment to Italy for the United States to set apart a day to observe the third anniversary of her entrance into the war. Italy deserves this compliment for the part she has taken in the war and the sacrifices she has made and is making and the heroism of her soldiers.

It is a fine thing to think that the United States and Italy are fighting in a common cause, one that is high, noble and humanitarian.

CHARLES A. PASTENE:

It is characteristic of the generous spirit of the American people that their President should have named a day in which to express their appreciation of Italy's part in the war, of the burdens which she has borne and of the sacrifices which she has made. America's realization of it conveyed to the people of Italy will have a wonderfully heartening effect. To convey to Italy the utmost cordiality and good-will of this great nation is to strengthen her arm for the blow that she must soon deliver against her enemies.

Says Allies' Faith Is Centred in Italy

By THOMAS R. MARSHALL

Vice-President of the United States.

It is no longer upon the lip of the American that while the Coliseum stands Rome stands. Now it is our confident faith that while Italy holds the Allies hold, when Italy advances, democracy moves forward, when Italy triumphs peace will again spread her wings over a war-weary, war-worn world. Our faith and hope are as surely centred in her courage, sacrifice and undying devotion to the common cause as it is in our own high resolve.

Italy, through the centuries, has been the mother of Gracchi. Her Cornelias of today have given to her and the world jewels of loyalty and courage which shine with more resplendent lustre than the jewels of the crown of Savoy. We are with Italy as Italy is with us—to the end, though that end reach out to the crack of doom.

persists along its mean and treacherous way.

Recognition of the anniversary and of Italy's heroic sacrifices in the war is particularly desirable at this time, when the Hun is prepared, according to military expectations, to launch another drive from the Adriatic to the Alps.

Italian citizens in Boston and Americans of Italian birth or decent are urged to write to relatives or friends in Italy at this time. These "Italy-America" letters should emphasize America's purposes in the war, her determination to secure enduring liberty for all and her high appreciation of Italy's brave course in the awful struggle. Boston, it is expected, will contribute heavily to the flood of "Italy-America" messages which are to bear comfort and encouragement to our Latin brothers-in-arms.

FANEUIL HALL MEETING.

At the Pops Concert tonight an all-Italian program will be heard under direction of Agide Jacchia. This tribute to the land which has contributed so richly to the musical, as well as to the graphic wealth of the world, will be peculiarly happy to the anniversary time.

The Boston observance culminates in a civic celebration tonight in Faneuil Hall. This famous old temple of American liberty will re-echo to expressions of brotherly affection for the land that slopes down from the snow-capped Alps to the blue-waved Ionian Sea.

Governor McCall, Professor Grandgent of Harvard, Gustavo di Rosa, the Italian Consul at the port of Boston, and Dr. Rocco Brindisi will be among the speakers. Dr. Brindisi will address the audience in Italian.

Consul di Rosa, Lieutenant Vittorio Orlandini, the Boston attorney who served with the First Royal Italian Grenadiers, and other Italians prominent in Boston life, are giving messages today through the Boston AMERICAN to Americans and Italians alike. These messages tell Italy's aims in the war and America's confidence in and love for Italy.

CALL BY THE PRESIDENT

The statement by President Wilson, made public on May 18 and urging observance of today's anniversary, said in part:

The President calls the attention of his fellow-citizens to the burden which Italy has borne so heroically during these three years, to the valiant struggle of her armies, to the no less valiant struggle of her civilian population, to her fortitude in defeat and her moderation in victory.

It should be recalled that Italy's declaration of war on Austria-Hungary three years ago today made possible the withdrawal of French troops from the Italian border. These French troops, strongly reinforcing the armies of General Foch and General Joffre, contributed largely to the allies' victory at the battle of the Marne.

The anniversary also emphasizes the fact that Italy, by almost superhuman efforts in the Alps and on other portions of the southern battle front, has kept the Hun from swarming down to the Adriatic coast and seizing military and naval positions of utmost importance.

For the allied cause, for the safety of the world and for ultimate peace did Italy brave the pestilence of the Hun.

Two great national organizations have recently been formed. One is the Italy America Society, the other the Roman Legion of America.

The first was organized to establish a definite platform upon which the leading personalities of the two great nations may be enabled to exchange their best thought upon the questions of industry, economics and finance, as they are understood and practised in each of these separate lines.

The Roman Legion — whose very name breathes of that ancient heroism which is the heritage of the Italian race — proposes to present systematically to Italians in America and to Americans of Italian extraction the true situation regarding Germany's efforts to influence the Italian mind. It proposes to show that America is entirely in sympathy with her Italian ally.

Italian Ambassador Is Touched by U. S. Tribute

By COUNT V. MACCHI DI CELLERE, Italian Ambassador to the United States.

I consider the celebration of the third anniversary of Italy's entrance in the war as a touching recognition of the struggle our nation has pursued for three long years against the common enemy in the field of battle and against the direst needs and privations at home.

I know that the high patronage granted by the President of the United States to this celebration will have a far-reaching moral, social and political significance in Italy which transcends the bounds of courtesy.

I am sure the friendly relations between my beloved country and this great and generous nation will be made even more cordial and brotherly than before, and I anticipate the day when the Italians of America, co-operating with their comrades of the United States, will be recognized as a potent and efficient force in building up the new civilization which we expect to spring forth from the sufferings and misery of this war.

TOWN HONORS STANLEY, G.A.R. CHIEF

Manchester, May 24.—Edwin P. Stanley, commander of the Department of Massachusetts, G. A. R., and Mrs. Saddie Lee Follett of the executive board, W. R. C., were tendered a reception here last night in the town hall by Allen Relief Corps, 119. Members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. came from all parts of the State to do honor to Commander Stanley and Mrs. Follett. In addition to being head of the G. A. R. in Massachusetts, Commander Stanley is town treasurer of Manchester, having held the position for the past 28 years. He is 71 years of age, but his sparkling eyes and ready wit make him easily pass for less than 60.

Those in the receiving line were Mrs. Hannah G. Tappan of the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary, Samuel L. Wheaton, Commander Enoch Crombie of Post 67, Mrs. Flora Chapin, department president of the Woman's Relief Corps; Senior Vice-Department Commander Wilder, Adjutant Nordell, Quartermaster Wilfred Wetherbee, Commander Soule of the Sons of Veterans, President Norton of the Daughters of Veterans, and President Alice Pratt of the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary.

ITALY FIGHTING FOR PEACE AND FREEDOM OF WORLD, KING VICTOR CABLES

Washington, May 24.—The climax of a great meeting in which Washington marked the opening of the nation-wide celebration of "Italy Day" was a message from the King of Italy to President Wilson. It was read by Count V. Macchi de Cellere, the Italian ambassador.

At its conclusion Secretary of State Lansing, who presided at the meeting, led the cheers that shook the rafters of Billy Sunday's one-time tabernacle, where the meeting was held.

King Victor Emmanuel cabled:

> On the occasion of the celebration of the anniversary of Italy's entry into the war which is being held in the United States, I am pleased to send to you, Mr. President, and to the American people, my own warmest greetings and those of the Italian people.
> Three years ago Italy took up arms for the same ideal causes to which the powerful American republic later gave her moral and material support.
> The national consciousness, opposed to every attempt of violence, from whatever side it might come, aligned Italy with the nations fighting for the sacred principles and rights which we want completed with the liberation of our oppressed brothers from the foreign yoke, and with the vindication of our legitimate safety and existence, without which no sound peace can be assured.
> Today, on the battle fields of France is being concentrated the brotherhood in arms of America and Italy. May this consecration be the happy omen of an ever more close co-operation between the two nations in the future in the field of the progress of civilization.

Dignified matrons of Washington society stood up and cheered. Their voices mingled with those of sturdy boys in khaki and with 4,000 American and Italian-American men and women.

It was not the first time the meeting had been swept off its feet. Robert Lansing, the usually cool and dignified Secretary of State presided, and himself made an address full of the real fire of patriotism and affection for sunny Italy which warmed the whole meeting. Mr. Lansing also read the message of President Wilson to the people and King of Italy. That too brought wild cheers. The Italian ambassador spoke, sometimes almost overcome by emotion, of the part his country had played, of her sufferings, and of her appreciation of the help of the United States.

All through the speeches there were interspersed golden bursts of Italy's own music. Claudia Muzio and Martenitti of the Metropolitan Opera, sang, and Signor Fabrizio, violinist, played.

Today the celebration is officially taken up throughout the nation. The State Department will continue it throughout the world by its order that all diplomatic and consular offices, for the first time in history, fly a flag other than the American. All fly the Italian tri-color.

ITALIANS HERE PARADE FOR TWO NATIONS

Monuments and Statues of Presidents Decorated by Sons of Socilian Vespers

The Sons of Sicilian Vespers, one of the leading Italian organizations of Greater Boston, observed Italy-America Day by placing laurel wreaths upon the Soldier' and Sailors' monument on Boston Common, the Lincoln statue in Park square and the equestrian Washington statue in the Public Garden.

The Sicilians assembled in the North End, led by President Peter Raffa, and by John Oddo, chairman of the committee of arrangements. In parade formation and preceded by a band and by the American, Italian and Maschuasetts colors they marched to the Common.

The speakers at the ceremony of placing a wreath on the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument were Lieutenant Vittorio Orlandini, who served with the First Royal Italian Grenadiers, and Rev. Henry Sartorio of the Old North Church.

Lieutenant Orlandini, speaking in Italian, dwelt upon the wars waged by America and by Italy in the cause of freedom. He added that both countries were now fighting for the freedom of the world. Referring to the immediate occasion he said:

"On this day, which the President of the United States has set apart in honor of Italy, it is only fitting that the Italians and particularly Sicilians—noted for their constant battles against oppression—should honor the heroes of America."

Pastor Sartorio emphasized the meaning of Italy-America day and the increasing kinship between this country and Italy.

The band rendered the national airs of America, Italy and their allies.

The Sicilians then proceeedd to Park square and the Public Garden, where the Lincoln and Washington statues were hung with wreaths after which a return was made to the North End.

JUDGE DOWD SCORES WAR-TIME PESSIMISTS

Judge Thomas H. Dowd of the city court took exception at a Red Cross meeting at the Paine Furniture Company on Arlington street to remarks made at the Unitarian festival in Tremon Temple Wednesday night by former United States Attorney-General James M. Beck. Judge Dowd referred to Mr. Beck and "others of a melancholy nature." The judge said this was no time for discouragement but rather for inspiration. He praised the Red Cross warmly, saying it asks for only $100,000,000 but ought to be given $500,000,000.

WORK ON FARMS DURING YOUR VACATION

Food Must Be Raised and Labor Is Scarce—Help Win the War and Have Good Time

By ELIZABETH ELLAM.

Men must sacrifice their Summer vacations and enroll for a corresponding length of time for labor on the farm, if they would aid in "winning the war."

Instead of chasing the elusive golf ball, they must chase the equally elusive potato bug. For the long rambles in shady groves or on a pebbly beach, they must substitute long rambles in the fields, hoe in hand.

A glorious sunrise as the beginning of a perfect day—instead of the close of a perfect night, must be their program if they are patriots, eager to do their share to help win the war.

THE REASONS ARE GOOD.

The office of the Public Service Reserve in the State House, where the drive for farm labor is being conducted, has found out many things and arrived at many conclusions, during the week that the drive is on and this is one of them. Others follow:

1—The men of Massachusetts are not going to enroll for farm work at $2 a day, when they can easily get over twice that amount in any ship building plant, or munitions factory in which they go to work.

2—You would not ask a shoe manufacturer to keep on making shoes, if you knew he was losing money on each pair, just because you want shoes, would you? And yet you ask the farmer to keep on manufacturing food because you need the food—even though he does it at a decided loss.

3—Therefore, the farms of Massachusetts eventually will have to be placed upon a business basis, conducted as is any business industry and in the meantime men will have to enroll for Summer vacation work, if the food is to be raised for this part of the country that the United States government has asked.

MUST HELP THE FARMER.

4—Clerks, bankers, brokers, salesmen and managers will have to go back to the farms for their vacations—if the farmer is to be encouraged to keep on, and the food is to be raised. A sufficient enrollment of "vacation farmers" must be secured who will contribute that much time on the same principle that the boy in the trenches is sacrificing his future, his ambition—and perhaps his business as well—for $30 a month.

E. F. McSweeney, who is representing Colonel William A. Gaston in much of the active work of the drive, is confident that it will win.

"We'll get the men," he says, with dogged determination, "but we will have to appeal to them from the purely patriotic standpoint."

In an office in the State House, Dennis and Antonio worked side by side. They were bright boys, about seventeen, working for the ordinary wage of a boy—$8 a week. Columns of figures they added, errands they were called upon to run and in short, they made themselves generally useful. And like all seventeen-year-old boys, they became restless hearing of all this war work, fat envelopes and opportunities on every side.

LURED BY HIGH WAGES.

Today, Dennis and Antonio have given notice. They are going to leave. Each has secured a job in a big building plant—each with $18 a week to start, and overtime enough to bring that wage up to $10 a week more.

Consequently the charm of the $8 a week job has departed for Dennis and Antonio. And their cases are only similar to dozens of others that are coming to the attention of the Public Service Reserve.

If the youth, the young man and the older man will volunteer for his vacation time he need not be disturbed in his other business, but he will be making a valuable contribution to "win the war." It will not be sacrifice, either.

The ordinary man needs exercise and takes it, even when he is vacationing. He will get that exercise on the farm! He needs plenty of fresh air and sunshine. The farm offers all that.

4 U-BOATS SUNK ON PRISONER'S INFORMATION

Captain of First of Five Told British Captors of Approach of Others

By International News Service.

New York, May 24.—The first authoritative explanation of the announcement some months ago by Premier Lloyd George, of how five German U-boats were sunk in a single day off the north coast of Ireland was made yesterday by Louis Tracy, the novelist.

Mr. Tracy, who is associated with the British war mission in this country, spoke at the American artists' exhibit at the Anderson galleries, in aid of the American, British, French and Belgian permanent blind war relief fund. He said:

"A British submarine was lying off the coast of Ireland and had come to the surface. As she lay quietly with her officers and crew assembled on the deck for relaxation, there suddenly appeared, not more than forty feet away the periscope of a German U-boat.

"The British craft immediately fired and disabled the U-boat so that the British were able to capture her with her commanding officer and men. The men were kept on the German boat, but the commander was taken aboard the British submarine. He seemed very much ill at ease and kept taking out his watch.

"Finally he informed the British commander there were four other German U-boats in the vicinity. He knew that if one of these should first observe the British submarine that he, together with the British sailors would be sent to the bottom."

"The British commander, once getting this information, immediately communicated with his home station by wireless and British destroyers were rushed from all directions toward the spots where the German commander indicated the German U-boats were apt to be.

"As a result every one of the four remaining U-boats were destroyed during the afternoon, marking the largest single bag of German submarines during the war."

"Major" Willard E. Wood of the United States Boy Scout figures in the list of indictments returned by the Federal Grand Jury, the indictment brought against him charging that he wore a uniform similar to those worn by United States Army officers.

Two more war-time indictments were handed down, one charging John J. Ballam of Rand place, Roxbury, with having made remarks in violation of the espionage act, and the other charging Hans Heydemann, a traveling salesman, living in New York, with obstructing enlistment and recruiting by his talk at North Adams.

WASTED ENERGY

Why Some People With Large Appetites Fail To Gain Flesh

Many people who have large appetites never can seem to gain flesh or strength and the reason for this is because they get little nourishment from the food they eat. This means that the weakened system is unable to take up the nourishment which the food contains and this energy is wasted. If you want to gain flesh you must take a food that your weakened system can easily take up—such a food as Father John's Medicine which is absolutely pure and wholesome. Begin taking it today and see how you gain in weight and health. It is guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form.

Start today taking Father John's Medicine after meals and at bedtime and see how promptly you gain weight and new strength.

Miss Stinson Breaks Record Though Her Flight Is Broken

By International News Service.

Binghamton, N. Y., May 24.—Miss Katherine Stinson's Chicago-New York air flight was interrupted near here by an accident, and she was compelled to remain here while her airplane was being repaired. But she broke the American record for a non-stop flight, having made over 700 miles in ten hours. The non-stop flight record was held by Lieutenant O. M. Bounds, U. S. A., who flew 700 miles in ten hours. Just how many miles Miss Stinson exceeded the previous record has not been ascertained.

Miss Stinson's plane turned turtle as she landed, smashing the propeller and injuring one of the wings. She was unhurt.

LEWISTON MAN HELD ON $14,000 LIQUOR CHARGE

Portland, Me., May 24.—Thomas McNamara of Lewiston was arrested by United States Marshal John S. P. H. Wilson in that city charged with being the consignee of the $14,000 carload of liquors seized by the police of Lewiston several days ago.

It is alleged McNamara violated the so-called "bone dry" law by transporting the liquor from New Hampshire into Maine.

He was held in $500 cash bail for his appearance at the September term of the United States Grand Jury.

The entire carload of liquor, 3,700 bottles, was libeled by the United States deputy collector of customs.

GIVE TO THE RED CROSS

This week New England is called to make the greatest sacrifice it will have made since the United States went into the war—the greatest, except the one supreme sacrifice that its fighting sons are making every day and every hour in offering their lives on the altar of freedom.

Every cent that goes to the Red Cross goes to help the soldier in his fight. The greatest part of it will be spent on his personal comfort, spent to make his life less hard; and to make his death more sweet if he is called to die for his country.

New England—and particularly Boston—cannot afford to be niggardly with its heroic sons. It must give—and give—and give; give all it can and then give more; give and give until it hurts; and then keep on giving!

Our boys are giving their all—over there. Let us give in some measure to make their giving more effective, and to show that we know what they are giving for us.

CHILDREN'S CARNIVAL WEEK

May 27th to June 1st.

(May 30th—a holiday)

Such wonderful things here for Children's Week!
Remember the fun and the delight you used to have in reading about Cinderella, dear old Mother Goose and all those dear, almost real people.
They are all invited here—and they are coming, themselves, and talk to you children!
And real live animals, are going to be here—donkeys, monkeys, etc. Mary's little lamb—birds, too, macaws, bluebirds and others.
Ask Mother to bring you in next week or ask teacher to take you and the rest of the class.
You know it's free and besides souvenirs are going to be given to little girls and boys who come with either a parent or guardian.

It's going to be a joyful time.

Of course, you're coming!

GOADED TO SHOOT BY WIFE'S ABUSE, SAYS GRACE LUSK ON STAND

MEANT TO KILL HERSELF, SAYS SCHOOL TEACHER IN TELLING OF TRAGEDY

once or twice did Attorney Clancy ask a question. Otherwise Miss Lusk continued the story in a cold, calm way. Sometimes she swept her hand over her eyes as if a momentary pain had struck her there.

She did not remember shooting herself.

"I only realized that I wanted to die," she cried on the stand. "Then my father visited me at the hospital and said he wanted me to live."

WIFE DEMANDS EXPLANATION.

Miss Lusk began the tale of the fatal afternoon last June by telling how she was talking over the telephone to Dr. Roberts from the home of Bianca Mills.

"Just as we were talking," she said, "Mrs. Roberts came in. She demanded an explanation of the performance of the night before.

"She said: 'It is the most asinine performance I ever heard of.'

"I said: 'Did you husband explain this to you?'

"She said: 'He said you were the damnedest fool he ever knew.'

"I said: 'In what respect?'

"She said: 'He told me you have chased him and he hasn't known what to do with himself. What else can you expect of a married man. What do you think he would say about you?'

"Then she started to abuse me. She said 'Whenever I say anything about you the doctor always makes fun of you. He told me if I suspected him of having anything to do with a woman to at least give him credit for picking out a nifty dresser.'

"She demanded to know if I had been intimate with Dr. Roberts. I replied 'That is a question you will have to ask your husband.'

"Then she said, 'I suppose you know about—a woman, and how she died. You know she died in an attics after an operation after she had been too friendly with my husband?' I said, And you lived with him after that?" She replied, 'Why, certainly. I'm only a respectable married woman.'"

OFFERED LETTERS AS PROOF.

"I told Mrs. Roberts that Dr. Roberts really cared for me and that I would prove it. I told her that I had some letters of his which would convince her. She asked me to see them. I went upstairs.

"There were two or three letters in my desk. I went to the desk. I opened the drawer. Then I saw the revolver."

Miss Lusk gripped her hands fiercely in her lap and struggled to regain her voice, which had broken.

"When I saw it I decided to show her the letters and then kill myself. I went downstairs. I handed her the letters."

And Grace Lusk reached the peak of her story and told how Mrs. Roberts hurled abuses and the fatal shot was fired.

Beatrice Fairfax Warns Girls of "Man Unhappily Married"

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

Wausheka, Wis., May 24.—For a week now I have sat in the courtroom at Wausheka listening to the evidence in the trial of Grace Lusk for the killing of Mrs. Mary Newman Roberts.

And from that long account of love sought, accepted and thrown away on the part of the man, and on the woman's side gripped, like a swimmer in a drowning clutch, there is one big lesson for every unmarried woman.

Her lesson is: Beware of the married man who confides in you that there is a lack of sympathy in his home. It is the cheapest and most obvious form of bait, and it is responsible for unhappiness.

MORE AMATEUR THEATRICALS.

In perhaps ninety cases out of a hundred it is not true. Women have by no means a monopoly of all the dramatic talents, and nearly every manly hat covers a potential Hamlet. The story of lack of appreciation at home rarely means any more than that "the tired business man" wants a love drama for a change.

Perhaps he doesn't mean to be disloyal to his wife when he begins to sigh, it is only his talent for amateur theatricals getting upper hand.

But he finds a sympathetic audience, of one, and it is only natural he should make the most of his love act.

The doctor, Roberts, your favorite learning—man-off-the-stage, probably went home to take his wife to the church social; or he told her on the way home that she "was the best little woman in the world."

Not two miles away, perhaps you are wondering how one can make up to Hamlet for the cruel lack of sympathy awaiting him at his threshold or his gas log.

DON'T TAKE HIM SERIOUSLY.

So when Hamlet begins smile, applaud, tell him that now that Sothern has retired a bright future awaits him, but don't take him seriously. Ten chances to one, in his heart, he doesn't want you to take him seriously. He is looking for an ear into which to pour his dramatic recitation—your ear or someone's else; it really makes very little difference whose ear.

Perhaps after a while, the tired business Hamlet will become so enchanted with his art that he may really begin to believe in his favorite lines lack of appreciation he will grow sorry for himself. He may even, through the magic of his own egotism, come to believe that you are necessary to his happiness, but the whole fabric is founded on a false premise.

If you have any surplus emotions these days, put them into the Red Cross that needs your sympathy and your help and let the unappreciated married man go home where he belongs. If he can't get an audience outside, he will probably make use of the faithful domestic ear.

Some reflections of this sort kept flitting through my mind as I sat in the courtroom.

One has an uncomfortable sense of eavesdropping while Grace Lusk was on the rack answering questions in short, broken sentences, in a voice that seemed to hold all the heartbreak in the world.

Again and again that deadly and insidious phrase cropped out. "He spoke of the lack of appreciation at home," or he said, "His wife did not understand him."

The frail woman sitting in the witness chair swayed from side to side, more than once the crowded court room expected she would faint, even as two women among the spectators fainted.

"He told me there was no happiness—no love on the part of either," and Grace Lusk's voice quivered for the moment and then with superhuman effort she again took up the thread of her story.

And yet, in spite of his testimony which rang true as gospel, I have seen Dr. Roberts weep on the stand when he mentioned his late wife's name, the wife whom he neglected and was unfaithful to and who, according to popular rumor, more than once extricated him from some of his unsavory affairs.

A married man is a sorry proposition, romantically speaking, and when the "showdown" comes he will as surely as not side with the wife whose alleged lack of sympathy was the cause of the unhappiness in the first place.

Whether she is sympathetic or unsympathetic, the fact that she is his wife gives her a dignity that every other woman in the world lacks in his estimation. She is the chief of his Royal Highness appurtenances and on this account, respect and consideration must be shown.

A majority, I am afraid, are not averse to making a collection of what we shall continue to call "ears," but in the final analysis they are willing, more than willing, to keep on with the first and original Eve.

Grace Lusk, in Shame, Lays Her Heart Open to Death Trial Jury

Waukesha, Wis., May 23.—The soul of Grace Lusk, psychologist, school teacher, on trial for the slaying of Mrs. Mary Newman Roberts, wife of Dr. David Roberts, the man she loved, walked through the valley of the shadow that is darker than death.

White faced, frail, broken, the woman to whom love did not come until she had crossed the meridian of life and whose wine of joy was followed swiftly by the vinegar of disillusion, laid bare to the world the secret places of her heart.

The day was one of sorrow and shame for the defendant. From the twisted white lips, the hunted eyes, the nervous fingers that now and then flew fluttering to her throat as though to loose some strangling hold; these signs of agony were posted, that all might see.

The woman, who had been considered by friends a reticent recluse in so far as her affections were concerned, was forced in her fight for freedom to give details of intimacies.

The testimony which seemed to terrify the witness herself ranged from the first kisses that passed between the defendant and Dr. Roberts until the time when their relations had progressed to the point where they occupied the same rooms in Chicago and Milwaukee hotels.

"Dignified Credit"

Makes the Way Easy to a Happy Wedded Life

He had proposed to her the evening before. She asked for time to consider and promised to give him his answer in the morning. "Very well, I will call you in the morning, for your answer!" That night he couldn't sleep a wink, so that early the next morning, with a worried expression on his face, he phoned her. The phone rings—she knows who is calling—and with a hesitating and puzzled look on her face advances to the phone.

Suddenly the thought dawned upon her that it wouldn't be necessary to give up her long-cherished hope of having that comfy home of her own, notwithstanding the fact that Jack hadn't saved up enough to buy the necessary furnishings. Summerfield's was the answer—they came and selected a complete home outfit.

Borden's
Evaporated Milk

Mrs. Allen's Recipe Contest
$2,500.00 to be given in Prizes

For the best recipe from each State and from Canada, calling for the use of Borden's Evaporated Milk, submitted before August 1, 1918, the Borden Company will award a cash prize of $25.00. For the second and third best recipes, prizes of $10.00 each will be given. For every recipe accepted for publication, $1.00. In the event of ties for the first, second or third best recipes the full amount of the prize will be given to each tying contestant.

Remember—there will be three prizes for every State in the Union and three for Canada. The prizes will be awarded by a committee of competent judges to be announced later. Recipes will be judged on three points:

1. economy; 2. excellence of finished dish; 3. form in which recipe is submitted. Prize-winners will be published as soon as possible after the prizes have been awarded.

Address Borden's Condensed Milk Company, 108 Hudson St., New York.

Your grocer has Borden's Evaporated Milk.

Eat Less Meat—
Use More Milk

Meat is neither vital nor a balanced food. Milk is both. It is the only food that, by itself, will sustain life satisfactorily.

Reduce the amount of meat and prepare more dishes with milk in them—get more nourishment with less weight—burn up less energy to digest the food—increase your efficiency.

"I recommend Borden's Evaporated Milk because I know it to be pure, rich, full-cream milk. I know that it comes from selected herds that are inspected regularly. I know that the Borden method of selecting and handling assures the milk's purity and its full food value from the dairy to you.

"I use Borden's Evaporated Milk myself—have been doing so for years. I find it a most convenient and economical form in which to use milk. You'll agree with me if you'll try it.

"Here's a simple, highly nutritious dish, wonderfully appetizing, that is easily and economically made with Borden's Evaporated Milk."

AUTOISTS SET FREE BY GIVING TO RED CROSS

Fall River, May 24.—Judge Hanify in the District Court today inaugurated a new method of dealing with automobile offenders, and incidentally increased the Red Cross fund by $85. The judge had before him four men charged with violation of the automobile laws. He informed the men he would file the complaints against them if they would make donations to the Red Cross. They accepted his offer with alacrity and $85 was the result.

WIFE OF MOVIE STAR TELLS OF LIFE OF TOIL

Mrs. Bushman Sewed to Aid Husband from Whom She Seeks Separation

By International News Service.

Baltimore, May 24.—Testimony of Mrs. Josephine F. Bushman, wife of Francis X. Bushman, movie star; Dorothy V. MacDonald, one-time secretary to Bushman, and Miss Mary M. Bushman, his sister, has been filed in the Circuit Court at Towson, Md., in the divorce proceedings instituted by Mrs. Bushman.

In giving a history of her life with Bushman, the wife said that her husband suffered from nervous prostration before their marriage caused by his efforts to gain a good physique by taking a physical culture course. She said she was nineteen years old when they were married and that she did all she could to help him, attended to her own housework, sewed at homes of persons she knew, taking her first baby with her, and continued to sew until the third child was born. Mrs. Bushman's testimony reads in part:

"During this time he was kind, lovable and true. It was his love that inspired me to do almost anything to help him."

In New York Mrs. Bushman alleges she was forced to take in boarders, and it was in this way he met two young women in the Moulin Rouge, and through them secured his first part on the stage. Later in Camden, N. J., Mr. Bushman, she said, secured a position with a film company and they went to Chicago.

This was the turning point in their happiness, which, she said, up to then had been complete.

"Things went from bad to worse," said Mrs. Bushman, "and he told me that I was a 'loadstone around his neck.' He said that he had made a mistake in marrying me and said that I was not a good housekeeper, mother or wife. He wanted me to go back East.'

Bushman's income, she alleges in her testimony is not less than $75,000 a year, and she asks the court to require him to contribute to the support of herself and their five children, the sum to be fixed by the court.

She also asks the custody of the children.

Hold Swedish Firm to Flour Contract in Spite of War

The great war now going on was not considered by the full bench of the Supreme Court to be sufficient reason for the failure of a firm of flour dealers in Sweden to carry out a contract.

The full bench today ordered judgment on a verdict for $42,408.84 obtained in the Superior Court by the Kehlor Flour Mills Company of St. Louis against Linden & Lindstrom of Sweden. The Swedish firm made a contract to purchase 45,000 barrels of flour for $276,000, the same to be shipped from Boston to Sweden.

The transaction took place about the beginning of the war, and was rescinded by the defendants because of disturbed commercial conditions and fluctuation of exchange.

ROXBURY MAN HELD FOR ASSAULT WITH GUN

Carl G. Lagerquist, twenty years old, of Tremont street, Roxbury, was before the Roxbury court today charged with assault with a loaded revolver on George L. Constantine of Parker street. He was also charged with carrying a concealed weapon, and on both complaints was held in bonds of $50 until May 29.

TRANSFER 296 NEW OFFICERS FROM AYER

Two Majors Promoted to Rank of Lieutenant-Colonel; Ban on Boating

By WILLIAM FLYNN.

Camp Devens, May 24.—Two hundred and ninety-six of the graduates of the Third Officers' Training Camp, all recommended for commissions, have been transferred out of this cantonment and will probably receive their commissions within a short time. This number comprises all of the infantry graduates with the exception of six, who are acting as instructors at the Fourth Officers' Training Camp.

The artillery graduates of the Third Officers' Training Camp were sent away from here before the camp closed.

Major Charles D. Winn, acting division inspector, and Major George L. Wertenbaker of the 303rd Field Artillery have been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel and transferred to another cantonment.

Private Hugh F. Dailey, of New Haven, Conn., has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the 301st Field Artillery remount depot veterinary corps. Five more officers of the depot brigade have been assigned as instructors in the Fourth Officers' Training Camp. They are First Lieutenants H. C. Nowlin, Edward A. Winsor, Thomas Yess and Second Lieutenants William G. Thayer and Harold S. Tuck.

It was announced at Division Headquarters today that hereafter no swimming or boating would be permitted at Robbins Pond, where one soldier was recently drowned and two others had narrow escapes when a canoe overturned and threw them into the water.

One officer from each regiment or separate battalion in the cantonment has been detailed to assist First Lieutenant John F. McAree, chief of the camp fire department, in handling the men who respond to the new forest fire call.

SON A PRISONER, PUT TO DEATH BY GERMANS

Corporal Daniel Moncur, who reported today at the British Recruiting Mission for duty, brought with him a letter from the War Office in London which is an official statement that Moncur's son was shot by the Germans after he surrendered, wounded, in October, 1914.

Moncur, who enlisted to avenge his son's death, has just been discharged from Whitby Hospital, England, and is eager to go back to fight the Germans.

"My son," he says, "was the victim of the first German atrocity of the war."

The Germans, he says, gave no explanation of their execution of the youth, who was only seventeen years old.

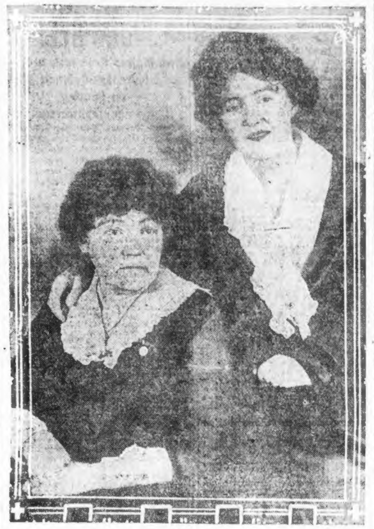
Strangely enough, at his request they sent his pocket Bible home to his mother, with some other effects that were in his clothing.

In Toronto, it is said, Corporal Moncur obtained 1,000 recruits for the British army in one week. He received today a letter from his second son, seventeen years old now, who is eager to enlist and believes that he will succeed in doing so.

Foresters to Honor Egan

Milford, May 24. — Members of Court Milford, Foresters of America, are to have a banquet on June 12 in honor of James P. Egan, a Milford man, just elected grand recording secretary of the Grand Court.

GEN. RUCKMAN'S FAMILY EAGER TO WORK HERE



Wife and daughter of Brigadier-General John W. Ruckman, new commander of the Department of the Northeast, who are anxious to continue their war service activities in their new field.

Mrs. May Ruckman, wife of Brigadier-General John W. Ruckman, the new commander of the Department of the Northeast, and her daughter, Miss Marjorie Ruckman, are ready for war work of some kind in Boston.

"I couldn't remain contented without doing war work," said Mrs. Ruckman today.

Miss Ruckman sums up her sentiments thus:

"Anything to help win the war."

General Ruckman, at the beginning of his official duties here, lays stress upon moral cleanliness for the camps.

The General said:

"I'd keep vice out of every camp. Camps should be kept educational and moral centres, not cesspools of iniquity. Now, I'm not saying any of them are this. But there are persons lurking around camps who would like to make them such. It is these fellows that I'd like to have a brush with."

Mrs. Ruckman, who has been among the foremost in promoting hostess houses in Southern camps, said:,

"I have also been interested in other branches of war work, like surgical dressing. But I do not think one should get used to doing merely one form of war work without change."

Mrs. Ruckman is enjoying Boston but she hopes to become acquainted with our east wind "easily," as she terms it.

Miss Ruckman, who has been active in Red Cross work, is preparing to take up that or some other form of war help as soon as possible.

EASTERN PART OF BAY STATE 'GOES OVER'

Common today, did not take place, because the wool did not show up. It was mailed direct from the White House under the President's frank, but Mr. Burleson's subordinates did not get it delivered here. Consequently the rally was minus an auction, but there was plenty of exhortation to aid the Red Cross in the speeches of a number of orators.

MAINE COMING STRONG.

These included William E. Chamberlain, Lieutenant Bankhart of the Canadian Royal Dragoons, Private Douglas, E. N. Shaw and Corporal Dan Muncur of the Canadian forces. Muncur's son was the first Canadian wounded in the present war.

Gains in New England were general today, but among the best were those of Maine, which increased its subscriptions from $302,000 to $437,000; Hampshire County, Mass., from $9,000 to $21,000; Berkshire County, from $63,370 to $92,656, and Franklin County, which went over the top with a $5,000 margin by raising $30,000 for the fund.

Portland reports 92 per cent of its quota raised and predicts that it will have a 25 per cent. oversupscription.

The news that Eastern Massachusetts was "over the top" started a celebration at Red Cross Headquarters. Chairman F. W. Story, A. J. R. Helmus, A. Douglass and Pliny Jewell were the instigators of the celebration, which created the biggest stir of the day at the Red Cross rooms. Mr. Helmus with amegaphone led the cheering and the whole staff of workers joined in.

25 TOWNS OVER THE TOP.

Twenty-five towns are definitely known to have passed their quotas in the Eastern Massachusetts division, and others are near the mark and will soon go over. Those that have already made good are Peabody, Sherborn, Southboro, Marlblehead and Plaistow, N. H.

Lawrence is making a house to house canvass and subscriptions are rolling in fast. North Attleboro staged a big demonstration, and Fall River gave up the whole day to the Red Cross drive.

Peabody today put on a baseball game for the benefit of the drive and North Easton has gone conspicuously over its quota with a 200 per cent. subscription.

Sherborn and Nantucket are leaders in the Eastern Massachusetts division, for the former has subscribed 208.3 per cent. of its quota and the latter 206.6 per cent. Rockland is over the top.

Large subscriptions today included $1,500 from Rice & Hutchins and a number of $250 and $500 gifts.

The officers, enlisted men and civilian employes at the navy yard made a new record with 5,688 subscribers and a total of $25,108.

The town of Montague, near Greenfield, is out to win high honors in the drive. Montague comprises three villages—Montague City, Turners' Falls, the largest village, and Millers' Falls. A rally for the 387 employees of the Millers' Falls Tool Company, and attended by none of the townspeople, brought subscriptions totaling $1,447.92 toward the quota of $2,000 for the town. This meant that every employee gave at least one day's pay.

DEATH NOTICE.

STOCKS STRONG ON BUOYANT MARKET

Boston Elevated in Local Lists Reaches Highest Point This Year

With the exception of coppers, the New York market was buoyant and continued to be so during the first hour. There was activity in specialties and some inactive stocks came to life.

American Sumatra Tobacco jumped to 127½, a gain of 4½ points and a new high record. In the second hour it touched 140. American Woolen, common, at 59¾, also made a new high record. Colorado Fuel was up 1⅜ at 53⅝.

Great Northern Ore gained 1¾, at 33⅛. Distillers' Securities opened at 62½, up ½, and Industrial Alcohol at 135, up 2½. Both reacted later. Steel stocks were strong. Allis-Chalmers opened at 36, then went to 37, up 2; Republic Iron and Steel went to 90, up 1⅞; Bethlehem B gained 1½ at 87½, and Crucible Steel 1¾, at 69⅝.

The market was quiet around the noon hour, industrials and steel stocks attracting the most attention. American Sumatra Tobacco was a feature, raising its record price to 145, a gain of 12 points. American Woolen common followed suit, going to 60⅞. Anaconda after a loss of ¾ rallied and remained near last night's close of 66¾.

American telephone rose 1¾ points to 101¼; Wilson & Co. was a strong specialty at 66½, up 3. U. S. Steel spent most of the first three hours between 109¼ and 110.

Boston Elevated was active and after recording a new high for the year at 74 fell back to 72½. Massachusetts Electric common and preferred made small gains.

Boston & Maine remained unchanged at 32, and New Haven was up ⅝ at 42. Boston coppers were inactive.

BACKACHE KILLS!

Don't make the fatal mistake of neglecting what may seem to be a "simple little backache." There isn't any such thing. It may be the first warning that your kidneys are not working properly, and throwing off the poisons as they should. If this is the case, go after the cause of that backache and do it quickly, or you may find yourself in the grip of an incurable disease.

GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules will give almost immediate relief from kidney and bladder troubles, which may be the unsuspected cause of general ill health. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are imported direct from the laboratories in Holland. They are prepared in correct quantity and convenient form to take, and are positively guaranteed to give prompt relief, or your money will be refunded. Get them at any drug store, but be sure to insist on GOLD MEDAL brand, and take no other. In boxes, three sizes.—Advertisement.

DEMOCRACY BOSTON, FRIDAY, MAY 24, 1918. LIBERTY

DEPOT BRIGADE BASIS OF NEW DIVISION

By WILLIAM FLYNN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, May 24.—Another division is being formed at this cantonment, and the reorganized and enlarged depot brigade is expected to form the nucleus of the new outfit. Three thousand men are being transferred from the depot brigade to fill vacancies in the 301st, 302d and 304th Infantry regiments and the 301st machine gun and field signal battalions.

It was also made known today that practically all of the physically fit of the permanent personnel of the depot brigade are to be shifted into the division.

Troops are being shifted all over the cantonment to make room for the new men assigned to the respective outfits in the barracks allotted to each organization. The two negro service battalions, which have been occupying the overflow barracks of "Boston's Own," have been sent back into the depot brigade and overflow barracks turned over to the new men transferred from the brigade.

Five new regimental sergeant-majors and three new battalion sergeant-majors have been named in the Depot Brigade. The men promoted to the rank of regimental sergeant-major are Sergeant C. Barrett Foley of New London, Sergeant John A. Brew of Plattsburgh, Sergeant William R. Smith, who has been in the army twenty-nine years; Sergeant Ira A. Hankey of Bridgeport and Corporal E. M. Dooley of Glendale. Former Sergeants Herman T. Long of Springfield and Leo G. Langlois of Pittsfield and Corporal A. W. Bonney of Bridgeport are the new battalion sergeant-majors.

The filling up of the Seventy-sixth Division has temporarily halted the report that one of the four infantry colonels was about to be made a brigadier-general and assigned to the command of the Depot Brigade. It was said here today that a man outside the camp has been selected for the berth.

EDITORIAL

There are many soldiers at Camp Devens who want to know why the wife of a private in the National Army cannot be operated upon at the base hospital as well as the wife of an officer. This is a situation that should be looked into by the authorities at Washington, for hospital officials have stated that there are no provisions made for the wives of privates.

Enlisted men's wives are permitted to receive medical attention at the hospital, but operations are reserved for officers' wives only. It is hard to make an enlisted man, whose wife is every bit the social and mental equal of the wife of any officer in the cantonment, understand why such distinctions should be drawn in the matter of life and death.

WRESTLING AND BOXING AT PIER NEARS END

By S. HARRY FERRIS.

Aboard the Receiving Ship at Boston, May 24.—With one more big meet scheduled, the boxing and wrestling season on the ship is drawing to a close.

It has been a remarkably successful season, and the weekly matches have shown that the ship has had men who were capable of making a good showing anywhere.

Some of the best of the boxers have been transferred with the numerous details that have lately been sent away, but there are enough good ones left to furnish an evening full of lively entertainment.

Young Brusso, who is now with the Boston section, won the welterweight championship of the navy at Newport. When the section goes over to East Boston, as it is expected that it will in the near future, the ship will lose Brusso unless he succeeds in getting attached to the provost guard.

In the guard he would have for a shipmate Gil Gallant, a lightweight, who has won a reputation in the matches in which he has taken part on the ship, of having a punch with plenty of ginger behind it and considerable skill.

SHAM FIGHT AT STILL RIVER BEST YET

By WILLIAM FLYNN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, May 24.—The artillery occupied the attention of the officers at the general staff school today, following the elaborate field manoeuvres held for their benefit at Still River.

The sham attack made by the four war strength platoons and co-operating outfits, including the members of the 301st Field Signal Battalion in camp at Bolton, was the largest and most realistic yet attempted at this cantonment.

Fifty-five officers, the majority of whom are from New England, have been taken from the attached list for the three artillery regiments and the 301st Trench Mortar Battery and sent to Camp Jacks as part of the artillery replacement unit that is being formed at the camp.

They are: From the 301st Artillery, First Lieutenants Carey J. Chamberlin, Frederick C. Beebe, Horton Heath, Warren W. Mansfield, Jr., Charles E. Smith, Allen F. Sherzer, Leverett Saltonstall and Robert S. Wait; Second Lieutenants Franklin G. Balch, Jr., Elliot Holt, Thomas A. Jenckes, Jr., Henry A. Laughlin, Jr., William A. Otis, Nathaniel E. Paine, Jr., Frederick C. Polhemus, John W. Thurlow and Frank V. Willard.

Newport Welcomes First Draft of Farmerettes

Newport, R. I., May 24.—The first draft of farmerettes have arrived at "Bethsham-in-the-Woods," in the suburbs of Newport, and owned by Mrs. Theodore K. Gibbs of this city.

They will have a housekeeper and the business details will be cared for by a committee of which Miss Edith Wetmore is chairman.

Miss Cornelia Geer, daughter of the Rev. William Montague Geer, D. D., vicar of St. Paul's Chapel, Trinity Church, New York, is here to assist in the training of the young women before they are sent out for daily labor. They will be paid at the rate of $2 per day.

ARLINGTON POLICE TO GIVE DAY'S PAY

One day's pay for the Red Cross has been pledged by each member of the Arlington police department. Chief of Police Thomas O. D. Urquhart has started a roll of honor, and as each patrolman turns over his day's pay to the Red Cross his name is affixed to the scroll.

VORENBERG EMPLOYES GIVE TO RED CROSS

The S. Vorenberg Company is not only giving ten per cent. of its entire sales today to the Red Cross, but every employee in the store, from manager to bundle boy, is giving one day's pay as well.

BOSTON HAILS TITLED LEADER OF SYMPHONY

Boston was eagerly alert today to the news that the new conductor for the Boston Symphony Orchestra was Sir Henry Joseph Wood of London, the famous British musical prodigy, whom the Philharmonic Society of New York vainly tried to secure as conductor to succeed Gustav Mahler seven years ago.

He will succeed Dr. Karl Muck, who was arrested asa n enemy alien and who is now interneda t Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

Outside of the great musical interest involved in the announcement from London that Sir Henry had accepted ano ffer to conduct the Boston Symphony, the news caused a distinct social flutter.

This will be the first time that a man of title has conducted the Boston Symphony. Sir Henry, who is forty-nine, was knighted on New Year's Day, 1911. It was shortly after this that New York made its effort to get him, and caused a great agitation in England's musical circles thereby.

Sir Henry has been twice married. In 1898, when he was thirty-seven, he married the Princess Olga Ourousoff of Podolia, Russia. This is one of the Slavic provinces bordering on Austria-Hungary. The Princess, who was a famous singer, died nine years after her marriage.

In 1911, after being knighted, Sir Henry married Muriel Ellen, daughter of Major J. W. Greatrex, late of the Royal Dragoons. They have two daughters.

He was deputy organist at the age of ten of St. Mary's Church, Aldermanbury. At twenty he was conductor of the Rousbury Opera Company. At thirty he founded the Nottingham City Orchestra and also conducted the London Musical Festival.

New Discovery Ends Corn Misery—
Touch a Corn with Ice-Mint, Then
Lift It Right Off—It Won't Hurt a Bit

Soreness Stops Quickly, then the Corn Shrivelsaand Lifts Off —Try It and See.

Here is the real "Corn Killer" at last. Say good-bye to your old corn salve and plasters, for that Pet Corn of yours is sure to be a "Goner" if it ever feels the Magic touch of Ice-Mint. This is a new discovery made from a Japanese product, and it is certainly a wonder the way it ends corn misery. From the very second that Ice-Mint touches that sore, tender corn, your poor, tired, aching feet will feel so cool, easy and comfortable that you will just sigh with relief. Think of it; only a little touch of that cooling, soothing Ice-Mint and real foot joy is yours. No pain, not a bit of soreness, either when applying it or afterwards, and it doesn't even irritate the skin.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also toughened calluses, just shrivel up and lift off so easy. It is wonderful! Just ask in any Drug Store for a little Ice-Mint, and give your poor, suffering, tired feet the treat of their lives. There is nothing better, or nothing "Just as good."—Advertisement.

STANDARD TRUCK NEW MACHINE FOR BOSTON

By C. F. DONNOCKER.

Another new truck has arrived on automobile row. The Atlantic Automobile Company of No. 574 Commonwealth avenue, New England distributor for the Hupmobile, has taken the agency of the Standard Motor Truck for New England.

While the truck is comparatively new to Boston and New England, having been shown only in one or two smaller cities, it is by no means new to the trade. It has been manufactured for eight years and is built in Detroit.

The Standard comes in three sizes, two, three and one-half and five-ton models, and from its construction seems to be strong enough for enormous overloads. It has the famous Continental motor and Timken worm-drive rear axle.

"The beauty of the Standard Truck," says George M. Leghorn, manager of the Atlantic Automobile Company, "is the fact that it is built absolutely of standard parts, so that it is possible for anyone to get parts in almost any good-sized town. Of course, in Boston and vicinity we will be able to supply parts at once, as our service station will carry a large stock of parts at all times.

"Another item of interest to the buyer is the fact that we can make immediate deliveries on these trucks at present.

"From my experience as an automobile dealer the Standard embodies correct engineering features and wonderfully strong construction, and is ready to make good anywhere."

SALEM G. A. R. WILL LAY WREATHS ON 1,638 GRAVES

Commander John C. Grover and Adjutant Everett Austin of Post 34, G. A. R., of Salem, are arranging for the Memorial Day service. There will be ,1638 graves decorated. There will be no service in any building on Memorial Day.

Services will be held in the First Church next Sunday, and the address will be delivered by Rev. Edward D. Johnson. The post will also attend services in the First Church in the evening.

REFUSED TO GIVE TO RED CROSS, LOSES JOB

Milford, May 24.—Roberto Piesco, twenty-four, employed in the lasting department of the Regal Shoe Company here, was summarily discharged when he refused to contribute to the Red Cross. The man said that he cared nothing for the country or the soldiers on the other side. The case was reported to the authorities.

AMERICAN STEEL 'CONFETTI' HAS HUN HOPPING

U. S. Gunners Show No Letup; Keep After German Soldiers Everlastingly

By BERT FORD,
Staff Correspondent International News Service.

With the American Army in France, May 24.—The American force in Picardy is unusually quiet in all branches. The only disturbance was a boche aviator, who flew over our lines during the night, drawing a brisk fire from the entire force of batteries. The night bombing of the villages in the rear of the enemy lines was suspended last night.

Commenting on the fighting spirit of the American soldiers, an American officer said:

"The Huns seem uneasy. I don't wonder, the way our batteries have been showering them with steel confetti, which has been an almost continuous performance. We have got the boches buffaloed. But they won't let us get a wink of sleep. The only way is to keep after them.

HITS THE LONG TRAIL.

"Our gunners are not content unless they are banging away at the Germans all the time. They have no union hours in their program. My, but can't those lads shoot."

A private by the name of Finnissee, who received his schooling in Clarke, Wis., thrilled the doctors and nurses in the field hospital when he was mortally wounded. The surgeon tried every method of science to save him. His last words, expressed with a feeble smile, were:

"If I could only live to go over the top, doctor, instead of being hit with a piece of shrapnel!"

Another private's last thought was of his mother. He said:

"Tell mother she will be taken care of by my insurance."

Miss Lehr, a Cambridge Red Cross nurse, told of the strange things found in the soldiers' pockets when brought to the hospital, show they were nothing but overgrown boys.

BEST GIRL'S PICTURE.

She said the nurses find in the soldiers' pockets lucky stones, horse chestnuts, love letters all crumpled up and finger-marked, showing they had been read many times; pictures of best girls, souvenirs of boyhood days, pocket coins, religious medals, little prayer books with names of their mothers and sisters written in them.

These are carefully removed before the operations and put away in a sack, which is tied and tagged with the name of the owner and his organization. Many times there are pictures of pretty girls, and some homely ones, among the effects, but all are preserved with loving affection.

AMERICAN RED CROSS

No single agency in the world is doing more to keep up the spirit of the fighters at the front, to bring cheer to the stricken, to heal the millions of broken hearts and torn limbs, to keep alive the spirit of brotherly love, than the American Red Cross.

The American Red Cross is maintained by popular subscription only. It's your dollar and our dollar that makes this work possible.

You have bought Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps. But then you were just lending your money. Now make the one supreme effort; buy joy and happiness by contributing to the American Red Cross.

First contribute all the cash that you can in the form of subscriptions to the American Red Cross. Then buy all your drug store needs in any of the Liggett's Riker-Jaynes Stores tomorrow, thereby assisting in a most worthy cause in a very material way without taxing yourself in the least.

There must be a lot of things sold in the drug store that you need in your home, drugs, remedies, toilet needs, soaps, tooth brushes, hair brushes, toilet powders, stationery, rubber goods, or nursery supplies. Take advantage of our regular Week-end Food Specials, tea, coffee, cocoa, sold at reduced prices.

YOU MIGHT JUST AS WELL buy tomorrow and thus contribute 10c of every dollar that you spend just as surely as though you had sent it to the Red Cross yourself.

"oh gladys! he has a Filene brown banded straw!"

Once upon a time
• • •
Back in the middle ages
When we considered Germany
A civilized nation.
Men used to wear
Straw hats with colored bands.
They wore them in all
• • •
Colors of the rainbow
And some that any
Self-respecting rainbow
Would be ashamed of!
They were so loud
• • •
You could hear 'em coming
Around the corner
But men must have wearied
• • •
Of colored hat bands
For ever since
They've stuck to
• • •
Plain black bands
And nothing else.
And we'd begun to think
They were going to do so
Until the Germans reform
WHEN ALL OF A SUDDEN—
• • •
Presto, chango, hatto—
• • •
Out comes the BROWN band
A happy middle road
Between the solemn black
And the noisy bright bands.
Quiet enough for octogenarians
• • •
Bright enough for youngfellos
With their eye on a girl.
At Filene's you'll find
Not only brown bands
But brown banded straws
• • •
With a tan-tinged straw
That completes the transaction.
THREE DOLLARS UPWARD
And not far upward at that!
WE THANK YOU.

CALLS FOR HUGE AIR DRIVE TO END WAR

By International News Service.

London, May 24.—The recent great British air raids far into Germany [illegible] demands for an efficiently planned, uninterrupted air drive that will paralyze the empire industrially and crush the German home morale.

The daily summaries of enemy machines shot down and tonnage of explosives dropped are eagerly followed [illegible] the war [illegible]

F. G. Kellaway, parliamentary secretary for the ministry of munitions, hits the popular view in an interview in which he says:

"It is clear that we have reached supremacy in the air, both as regards personnel and material. If we use this superiority in the air without limitations, except for the regard of humanity, which the British always observe, we can bring the war to a successful conclusion by air drives."

While pleased with the recent successes of British flights into Germany, experts and others voice a demand for even more effective and sustained bombing raids along the Rhine valley, where most of the German ammunition is made.

COTTON HOUSES HERE HAD BEEN LONG WATCHED

Prosecution in at Least One Case Likely, Says U. S. Prosecutor

The seven Boston cotton firms seized by the United States government on charges that they were "the principal representatives in America of the industry planned to supply cotton to the German government" had been under secret investigation by the Federal authorities for several [illegible] according to a statement made today by United States District Attorney Thomas J. Boynton.

Mr. Boynton added that it looked now as though at least one of the seized firms had violated the law, and that prosecution might follow.

The statement by Mr. Boynton was as follows.

ARMED WITH EVIDENCE.

"The Department of Justice learned several months ago of the activities of the firms in question through its bureau of investigation and just as we were about to broaden the investigation I learned that the Naval Intelligence Department, located in the Little Building, and particularly Ensign Trop, had gathered much evidence along that line, so that my department turned over all the information [illegible] gathered and allowed the Naval Intelligence Department to finish the job, which I believe has been well done.

"I cannot say at the present time just what action will be taken until I hear from Mr. Palmer, the alien property custodian, which I expect will be very soon.

"From present information it looks as though at least one of the firms in this city has violated the law and in that case a prosecution may follow. The time for any such prosecution will, of course, depend on the report of Mr. Palmer and the view the Washington authorities take of the matter."

ORDERS FOR SEIZURE

Orders for the seizure came from A. Mitchell Palmer of New York, alien property custodian. Five of the firms have places of business in the building numbered 251 Congress street and 549 Atlantic avenue. The other two firms are located in the building at No. 200 Summer street.

The firms seized are:

W. Wolf & Sons (Wolf & Soehne), No. 549 Atlantic avenue.

The New England Cotton Waste Company, 251 Congress street.

The American Linters Company, No. 549 Atlantic avenue.

The American Products Company, No. 549 Atlantic avenue.

The Overseas Trading Company, No. 549 Atlantic avenue.

Holdings of these five companies, of which Adolph Leve of No. 132 Bay State road, Back Bay, is president, are said to aggregate $4,000,000.

The other firms seized are:

The Anglo-American Cotton Company, No. 200 Summer street.

Richard Meyer Company, No. 200 Summer street.

SINN FEIN PLOT FACTS ARE TOLD TO CABINET

By International News Service.

London, May 24.—Full details of the alleged Sinn Fein plot in Ireland are expected to be made public as a result of the visit of Edward Shortt, chief secretary for Ireland, to London. Secretary Shortt lays the evidence before the cabinet today.

The official statement which on Tuesday night was [illegible] is believed to be [illegible] Shortt's report. In [illegible] it is hinted new evidence may have been obtained.

The Globe says it is unlikely the publication of the evidence, when it comes, will cause the release of any prisoners.

All the interned Sinn Feiners, according to the Press Association, [illegible] been offered, but have refused, investigation of their cases before Justices Younger and Sankey.

MRS. McCALL TO VISIT WILLARD SETTLEMENT

Mrs. Samuel W. McCall will be the guest of honor tomorrow at the annual open house day of Lewis [illegible] the Rest Home of the [illegible] Willard Settlement. The place will be open all day to those interested in the work. There will be a reception at 11:30 a. m., an entertainment, a play, and dancing by the children from the settlement at 3 p. m. The various activities of the lodge, including the camp for girls, which was regularly opened [illegible] will be open for inspection. The lodge is on the old Billerica road, near the junction of Brooksby road.

MORE ENEMY ALIENS FOR INTERNMENT CAMP

New York, May 24.—Fifty-two enemy aliens, including several from this city, have been taken to the government's internment camp at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. Dr. Joseph Stulz of Poughkeepsie, a wealthy chemist, who married a daughter of the late James W. Hinkley, wealthy Dutchess County political leader, was among them. Another was ex-Lieutenant William Lewis Dunbar of the navy.

NEW YORK EXPECTS TO GO OVER TOP BY MILLION

New York, May 24.—Total subscriptions to the Red Cross War Fund are $16,294,536, Lee L. Redding, publicity director, Red Cross committee, in a statement prepared for the International News Service, said:

"At the close of the fourth day of the Red Cross campaign New York city is still a trifle below the average which it must attain if it raises the full amount of its quota, $25,000,000.

"There is every expectation that when work closes next Monday night, New York will exceed its quota by at least $1,000,000. A gift of $1,000,000 was received from the Carnegie Corporation.

SAYS AMERICAN ARMY SETS WORLD EXAMPLE

Atlantic City, May 24.—"The American army is setting an example to the world," declared Joseph Lee of Boston, presiding over a conference of district superintendents of the war camp community service. "Never in the history of nations have men in their country's service been surrounded with such favorable and clean conditions." The community service was reported as [illegible] in twenty-four [illegible] villages and 204 towns.

DORCHESTER DOCTORS RAISE THEIR PRICES

The annual meeting of the Dorchester Medical Association was held at the Municipal Building, Columbia road.

It was voted unanimously to raise the fees for office visits to $2. House calls are to be raised from $2 to $3, and all night calls are to be $5. Present conditions and the high cost of materials were given as causes for the increase.

Happy Jack Helps Uncle Sam

FARMER BROWN'S boy was in a brown study. To be in a brown study, you know, is to be thinking very hard about something. This is [illegible] Farmer Brown's boy was [illegible] through the Old [illegible] and [illegible] the Green Forest. [illegible] didn't even hear Sammy Jay crying "Thief! Thief!" [illegible] which was Sammy's [illegible] way of greeting Farmer Brown's boy [illegible] mean it [illegible] Farmer Brown's boy have become very good friends indeed.

But Farmer Brown's boy didn't hear, so it didn't matter. He kept right on among the friendly trees. When anything puzzles him greatly and he wants to think it out he always goes to the Green Forest. He says he can think better there. By and by he sat down on an old log with his elbows on his knees and his chin in his hands and a far, a very faraway look in his eyes. Then he began to talk to himself, a way he [illegible] when he is all alone.

[illegible] I were big enough to fight in the great war. [illegible] I'd give every [illegible] to Uncle Sam to help buy the things he has to have for the [illegible] Yes I would, every cent!"

[illegible] his brows and at the same time [illegible] his hands into [illegible] coat pockets. [illegible] of them he felt a piece of paper. Without really thinking what he was doing he drew it out and looked at it. He remembered that it had been handed to him [illegible] and he had put it in [illegible] without looking at it. Now [illegible] puckered in deep [illegible] and three [illegible] seemed to jump [illegible] They were W. S. S. [illegible] they stood for [illegible]

Farmer Brown's boy abruptly sat down on the old log again. For five minutes he read [illegible] and all the time he grew more and more excited. When he had finished he jumped up. "Hurrah!" he shouted. "M[illegible] has come to me! There is a way [illegible]"

[illegible] Jay flew away in such a hurry that he forgot to take an acorn [illegible] Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel and Chatterer the Red Squirrel [illegible] and dodged [illegible] the nearest tree-trunk. [illegible] darted [illegible] presently peeped out [illegible] eyes snapping [illegible] Farmer Brown's boy [illegible] so still that [illegible] quite forgotten he was there and [illegible] sudden jump and shout had given [illegible] a great fright. Then when they [illegible] threatened, how they scolded!

Farmer Brown's boy laughed. "[illegible] you thrifty little rascal," he exclaimed. "I don't blame you a bit. But I tell you right now you're no more thrifty than I am going to be. Every penny I can get hold of is going to help win this war. That's what! And yet when the war is over I'm going to get my money back [illegible] and some more [illegible] do you know about [illegible] Uncle Sam wants to borrow [illegible] and he will pay for the use [illegible] I have to do is [illegible] Thrift Stamps every time I can get [illegible] cents. When I have pasted 16 of them in a card given [illegible] with the first stamp [illegible] for a War Savings Stamp [illegible] 14 cents besides. That stamp will cost me $4.14. Then I put [illegible] stamps [illegible] just as I would [illegible] At the end of five years I take [illegible] Uncle Sam [illegible] for my [illegible] back. He gives me [illegible] for my stamp, which is 86 [illegible] more than I paid [illegible] when I [illegible] the stamp.

[illegible] a pretty thrifty fellow, Happy Jack, but this beats your thrift [illegible] there is [illegible] more in it than [illegible] Now when I buy these stamps I save my money and at the same time [illegible] What do you know about that!"

Just then he noticed that Happy Jack was burying a nut in the [illegible] [illegible] a tree and bear [illegible] just the way [illegible] pennies [illegible] to Thrift Stamps [illegible] grow into more pennies and pennies make dollars, you know. It seems funny, but it's pennies that will win this war. Without pennies there would be no dollars, and without [illegible] no food or clothing or guns for the soldiers. So whenever I [illegible] with the pennies I [illegible] instead of buying candy [illegible] and truly do something [illegible] the most splendid thing possible for myself."

Farmer Brown's boy was beginning to get excited. "Why," he exclaimed, "[illegible] everybody would [illegible] it must be because they don't understand just what they mean [illegible] our soldiers over there in France fighting for us and to themselves. I [illegible] what I'm going to do. I'm going to tell everybody I meet about those stamps. I'm going to start a club—a Thrift Club, that's what I'm going to do! And to join it everybody will have to buy a Thrift or War Savings Stamp. Let me see what I [illegible]" [illegible] Happy Jack Squirrel [illegible] his way to his storehouse and he winked [illegible] at Farmer Brown's boy.

"I have it!" cried Farmer Brown's boy, and grinned until all the freckles ran into one big freckle. "I have it! You are the thriftiest chap I know of, so I am going to call my new club Happy Jack's Thrift Club."

Did you ever know that there is a Happy Jack Thrift Club right here? [illegible] And if you are as [illegible] and [illegible] patriot as Farmer Brown's boy, if you really love your [illegible] you will not [illegible] yourself by buying [illegible] Thrift Stamp and getting a Happy [illegible] button to wear. Let us all get everybody you know to do the same thing until the whole nation will [illegible] Massachusetts will [illegible] because of its patriotism, its thrift and [illegible] Wherever you see the letters W. S. S. you can [illegible] and become a member of the club.

"Be a patriot! Be thrifty," [illegible] Happy Jack. "Wear the button so that everyone will know that you are."

PRAISES WALTHAM WOMEN FOR LOAN DRIVE SUCCESS

That Waltham, instead of exceeding its quota by $149,600, would have made but a poor showing in the third Liberty Loan except for their assistance, is the tribute paid the Woman's Liberty Loan Committee by the chairman of the men's committee, P. P. Adams.

The report of the woman's committee, Mrs. Ronald T. Lyman, chairman, just filed at headquarters, shows that the soliciting committee, Miss Alice P. Childs, chairman, in their house-to-house canvass netted $219,600 from 1356 subscribers.

Don't Get Panicky About Clothing

We notice a tendency on the part of a few men to get a little bit nervous over the clothing situation. They think they ought to buy their clothes for next summer now. Don't do it. To buy more than enough for present needs is as unnecessary as it is unwise. With the extensive preparations we have already made for the Spring of 1919, we expect to be able to supply all the actual needs of our customers.

Of course, we realize that at the prices we ask our stock is wonderfully attractive and the values truly extraordinary. But we're here to look after the needs of our customers as well as to sell clothing. So we want to see it equably distributed.

This season's stock will never be larger nor the variety wider than at present. Right now is the time to buy—for this summer, not for next. Then you'd better take whatever you have left over and give it to the Red Cross.

For every taste a pattern, for every build a model, for every age a style, in these

These are the clothes men naturally turn to in times like these, safe in the knowledge that the high Kuppenheimer standard has not been and will not be lowered. The Plattsburg and Upton models are great favorites with the younger men. The Beaufort is the popular model for business men. The Forewards, the semi-stouts, the extra-long longs, and other unusual sizes not carried by ordinary stores make perfect fit a certainty.

SEES NEED OF PATRIOTIC SONGS

Chief Yeowoman Daisy Erd Says Soldiers Need Supply to Keep Up Spirits

Mrs Daisy Erd, chief yeowoman at the First Naval District wants more patriotic songs sung in camps and cantonments. She has composed a few war songs which are being sung extensively throughout the country.

"I wish you could see a letter I received from one of the boys in camp who values music," remarked Mrs. Erd.

"It just shows what can be done to keep the boys in good trim. They must have daily exercise and good food and [illegible] but don't forget the power of music. I do not know of any agency that keeps up your spirits more than a stirring patriotic song.

"We've got some, but we want more, something that has a good swing with it. Even the yeowomen feel the need of good music in the [illegible]

"Why just look at what patriotic songs have already brought in — $5,000 for naval relief we are told. Give us songs and they will win the war for us.

Not sentimental songs, but songs with red blod in them.

Khaki Wilts Girl's Complexions, Say Field Clerks

"The denim for us, not khaki."

This is the latest verdict of the women field clerks at the Department of the Northeast, according to Mrs. Edyth Grady, [illegible]

"There's [illegible] talk about getting khaki uniforms for us," explained Mrs. Grady, whose husband [illegible]

"[illegible] a girl may have a [illegible] but when [illegible] khaki cloth it just becomes [illegible] I [illegible] girls so, and they agree with me."

PLAN 3 AWARDS FOR HEROISM IN U. S. SERVICE

Medal of Honor, Highest in Rank, to Be Given Only With the Approval of Congress

By International News Service

Washington, May 24.—Three classes of honor awards for soldiers who distinguished themselves in the service of the United States are proposed in a bill approved by the War Department and introduced by Senator Chamberlain.

The medal of honor will be the highest in rank, followed by the distinguished service cross and the distinguished service medal. Women as well as men may receive the distinguished service cross.

The medal of honor is to be awarded by the President with the approval of Congress. Awards of the other rewards of merit may be made by the President without Congressional action.

Officers, non-commissioned officers and privates will be entitled to receive the medal of honor. The bill provides that it may be awarded to one "who shall in action involving actual conflict with the enemy, distinguish himself conspicuously by gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty."

The distinguished service cross is to be given to any person who, while serving in any capacity with the army, [illegible] has distinguished himself or herself by extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations against an armed enemy. The distinguished service medal is to be awarded for exceptionally meritorious service.

Each enlisted man who receives the cross or the medal is to have an addition of $2 a month to his pay. No man is to receive more than one cross or medal, but it is provided that for each successive act of heroism or meritorious service, the President may award a bar to be attached to the ribbon of the medal or cross. Each successive award is to be marked by an additional increase of $2 a month in the enlisted man's pay.

FLY ITALIAN FLAG FROM SEPARATE STAFF

Washington, May 24.—When you fly the Italian flag today in response to the President's request that the Italian colors be flown on the third anniversary of Italy's entry into the war, fly it from a separate staff and on the same level with the American flag.

Since the President made his request that the Italian flag be flown, numerous requests have come to the White House as to how the flag of Italy should be flown, whether above or below the American flag. Secretary Tumulty settled the matter by saying the Italian colors should be flown on a separate staff, this being in conformity with international usage.

CAMBRIDGE K. OF C. TO HOLD JOINT INITIATIONS

The four Cambridge councils of the Knights of Columbus have arranged to hold joint first, second and third degrees. Tonight the Ozanum Council of North Cambridge will exemplify the first degree. On Monday evening, May 27, the second degree will be exemplified for Cambridge Council in the Elks' Building. On Wednesday evening May 29, the third degree will be exemplified at the Ozanum Council rooms.

CEMETERY EMPLOYES TO WORK NEXT SUNDAY

Mayor Peters has signed an order allowing the men in the Cemetery Department to work next Saturday afternoon and Sunday.

This action means considerable overtime expense, but was necessary, according to the Mayor, due to the shortage of laborers in the department and the necessity of getting the grounds in readiness for Memorial Day.

SMILERS' CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL DANCE TONIGHT

The Smilers' Club of Cambridge holds its annual dancing party in the Newtowne Hall, North Cambridge, tonight. There will be a dancing contest for a silver cup, donated by former President Edward J. Dunphy of the Cambridge City Council.

BOSTON TO HAVE AERIAL MAIL NEXT FALL

By WINDER R. HARRIS,

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, May 24.—The aerial mail service has justified its establishment, in the opinion of the Postoffice Department officials. The results achieved thus far have been entirely satisfactory, it was stated, and continuation of the service between Washington, Philadelphia and New York is assured.

Extensions of the service now are being planned, but no additional routes will be established until all difficulties experienced in the initial venture have been smoothed out. The department expects to start mail-carrying airplanes between New York and Boston next fall. Later on, the third route will be established between Chicago and St. Louis.

Study of weather, mail and commercial conditions is necessary before aerial service routes are decided upon, it was explained. The need of more rapid transportation of the mails is the first consideration. Then the department's experts, in co-operation with the Weather Bureau chiefs, must figure on the average elemental obstacles to be overcome.

The average velocity and direction of the winds are taken into consideration to see whether airplanes could be expected to make the trips regularly and gain sufficient time over the train schedules to make it worth while.

Six planes already have been purchased for the New York-Boston route and a study of the weather conditions in New England is being made.

ARMED POSSE ON TRAIL OF NEGRO SLAYER

Barnesville, Ga., May 24.—A negro farm hand shot and killed John A. Willis, a well-known farmer here. The negro also shot at Artemus Willis, brother of the dead man, but missed. A posse of armed citizens is in search.

Cardinal O'Connell's Appeal

TESTIMONY of the highest order from France and Italy gives us all the fullest assurances of the marvelously efficient work accomplished by the American Red Cross Society.

Just so long as this war lasts that great work of mercy will be absolutely indispensable. Without its touching, tender and helpful assistance our brave boys would be in a sad and sorry plight indeed. We cannot even contemplate such a possibility.

The Red Cross is such an absolutely necessary concomitant of our army at the front that the same patriotism must stand behind both the army in the fight and the Red Cross in merciful service.

No true American can possibly fail in the solemn duty of this hour toward the boys who fight so gallantly and the noble forces of mercy which stand ready to aid them by deeds as valorous as they are generous.

No one with a heart can hear the appeal ringing today throughout the country and refuse to respond to it generously and substantially.

While in New York last week, I became thoroughly imbued with Red Cross needs, and the earnestness with which my friends were giving their time and their money for this noble and wonderful work. To ease the sufferings of the wounded.

[illegible] trembles in the balance. The latest regulations of Provost Marshal-General Crowder apply to diamond athletes beyond any question of [illegible].

[illegible] for the government, or fight, hereafter [illegible] broken slats and charley horses and [illegible] will and void.

Crowds this season have been lamentably small, everywhere. On the basis of organized B. B. reports some 1,500 fans per diem are necessary to defray expenses. And the 1,500 average has not been reached in more than a couple of spots, despite pennant teams and close races and everything.

FEW CLUBS BREAKING EVEN.

PLAYERS EAGER TO GO.

It can be said for the ball players that they have been willing to go, most of them. They are real Americans, most of them anxious as anybody else to do their bit. Cliff Markle has been reported missing. Hank Gowdy and hundreds of others are at the front.

[illegible]

Won't Surprise Tener if Both Big Races Are Called Off

Pittsburg, May 24.—"Everything [illegible] done to win the war," said President John K. Tener of the National League upon learning of the new order of Provost Marshal-General Crowder, which may require baseball players to go into a useful occupation or join the army.

[illegible] Tener said. "If baseball is nonessential, [illegible] of general service [illegible] leaving the [illegible] to find players [illegible] of military age and [illegible] done there is a possibility that our ball parks will have to be closed and the [illegible] brought to a close.

"Since the selective act has been effective, we have been operating with the understanding that baseball was being encouraged by the government and players have been responding as they have been called under the provisions of the act in great numbers, and many of them have volunteered.

"Baseball has been doing its share of war work in every way and [illegible] only too glad to comply with the new regulations in every way."

[illegible] that there may not be any [illegible] that [illegible].

HARD TIMES AHEAD.

As we see it, big league baseball [illegible] for a vacation if the war doesn't [illegible] another Spring [illegible] the game [illegible] wonderful prosperity after democracy is made safe. But [illegible] in store.

If the magnates can hang on and take their financial medicine, they will profit later on, but the hanging on threatens to be a mighty tough proposition.

More than a couple of clubs in either league have been close to [illegible] in the last few seasons. A spell of everything going out and nothing coming in for the next few [illegible] will give the baseball undertaker a chance to get busy.

MAGNATES ARE WORRIED.

[illegible] of pretty snug races [illegible] ahead, but so does a lot of [illegible] and suffering for the people in general. Baseball may prove the antidote for the trouble, but a [illegible] of magnates do not think so right now.

BIG BAN PEEVED OVER WAY MEN BEING TAKEN

Philadelphia, May 24—"The American League," said B. B. Johnson, "will never object to a ball player shouldering a rifle, and will do everything to encourage such a practice.

"However, we do not think it is fair to take our players and put them in industrial plants, where they are wanted mainly to play baseball.

"We oppose such a scheme. [illegible] are industrial plants with up [illegible] ball parks some costing as much as $25,000 and they are offering every inducement to get men out of organized baseball [illegible] play baseball Saturdays and holidays.

"Some of these parks are located within five miles of big league towns. We do not think this kind of competition is fair, but as I said before we will offer no obstacle to a ball player putting on a khaki uniform and taking a rifle and fight the Hun, even if it costs us every player in organized baseball."

BAT AND BALL FUND IS GIVEN BOOST OF $250

Clark Griffith's bat and ball fund for the boys who have answered the call to the colors, was increased more than $250 yesterday at Fenway Park. The Boston club contributed 25 per cent. of its share of the receipts to the Washington manager's athletic war chest. No war worker has labored more or to better effect than Griffith, and, according to all reports, his name is something to conjure with over there.

NO SLACKERS IN GAME, DECLARE THREE PILOTS

Boston magnates [illegible] and fans are already [illegible] big [illegible] game if the demands of the draft, as set forth by Provost Marshal-General Crowder, make such a move necessary.

The presidents of both local big league clubs were somewhat unwilling to comment [illegible] until they had studied it from all angles [illegible] their amusement enterprises.

By EDWARD G. BARROW,
Manager of Boston Red Sox.

It would be tough to lose all [illegible] them [illegible] their playing [illegible] a great bunch of fighters anyway.

Manager of Cleveland Indians.

Calling all the players of draft age would ruin the game for a time, but the [illegible] hope [illegible]

Manager of Chicago White Sox.

If the government requires the services of my athletes I will have three pitchers left, one outfielder, and I think I am still capable of playing the whole infield. If the government wants the men we will gladly sacrifice them and bid them farewell to play in the bigger field.

The proposed track meet for service men scheduled for June 8 at the Harvard Stadium has been postponed. The purpose of the meet was to raise money for the army and navy civic fund. BUNTS AND BINGLES
By H. W. LANIGAN

IT'S TIMELY, splendidly timely, for President Wilson to attend today's Washington-Detroit game, in Washington. There's to be a collection for the Red Cross and the President's presence at the ball park is bound to bring out the fans en masse and, of course, make the "receipts" all the more voluptuous.

* * *

MR. WILSON, who loves baseball, has not seen a game since 1916. The past Spring just before the curtain went up on the two championship races he stated that he did not see any good reason why the game should be brushed aside, that the great American public needed its fun and sport, along with its work and worries.

* * *

MR. WILSON has gone behind all amusements strong. And, all amusements, baseball, along with the rest of them, is doing its bit by both the government and populace. There's the entertainment—and always the 10 per cent. tax.

* * *

YES, BASEBALL may be closed up; the owners may be forced to close their parks. Better this should happen than a single one of its characters, a player, umpire or member of the business staff of any club, be branded a proven slacker.

HANK GOWDY set a splendid example to the men eligible to serve their country. Lots of his brothers, in fact, practically all of them, were slow in taking to Hammering Hank's lead. But the procession has started and the men are not sidestepping their duty.

* * *

SO, LET'S wait and see what we are going to see. The Nation will find the ballplayers practically 100 per cent. loyal, or the newspaper men who mingle with the men and enjoy a close association with them, will be sorely surprised.

* * *

CLARENCE ROWLAND, prince of good fellows and most efficient big league pilot, though two short Summers ago he was referred to as a "busher," as a result of coming up from the minors to an American League managership without having previously operated under the big tent, is in the Hub today with his world's champions. The White Sox are here for four games and the indications are the series will prove a spicy one.

* * *

TWO COUNTERS off Ayers in the ninth gave the Browns a clean sweep in the series in Washington. Smith, Sisler and Demmitt did the bulk of the stickwork.

* * *

Weaver blanked the Dodgers, yielding but four blows. Fred Mitchell has his outfit going along at a mighty tidy clip. It's certainly shown enough to date to let fandom know that if Alexander were still on deck Mitch would come mighty near having the National League flag winner in October.

FULLERTON'S COLUMN

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

How will the baseball public regard the "shipyard heroes" who are quitting their baseball teams and going to work in shipyards and munition plants, with the thinly-veiled intention of escaping army or navy service when they attempt to re-enter the game?

The recent movement of the players to the shipyards of private companies, where the majority are to play on ball teams rather than drive rivets, is a sad commentary on the patriotism of the players.

[illegible] who is offering [illegible] players to join the different [illegible] that are maintaining ball clubs.

FANS BOUND TO APPLAUD.

If the Government needs them they can take all able bodied players into the army or navy and the fans will applaud, but it is not fair to a million or two fellows, who aren't ball players, if ability to catch and hit is to be considered exemption from real service.

[illegible] get the most [illegible] ever given a player when he returns from France. But the [illegible] patriots [illegible] for the remainder of [illegible]

[illegible] of more good baseball [illegible] the game [illegible] perhaps Tim [illegible] Those two fought and loved each other.

One of their clashes in the old days was during a Sunday game at Cleveland, the first Sunday game played [illegible] for a long time. The grounds were crowded and ropes were stretched [illegible] the crowd back off the field.

THOSE OLD SPIDERS.

As [illegible] Tebeau, [illegible] McAleer, O'Connor and their tribe were after Tim and he had chased two or three of them off the field when he had a close decision at the plate which he gave in favor of Chicago.

Tebeau came running from the third base coaching box and screamed:

"You bow-legged, Irish spalpeen, if you give another decision like that I'll cut the ropes and let the crowd in on you."

Tim made no reply, but bowed his legs, and went back to work.

Jim Ryan was at bat and he cricketed the ball hard down the left field foul line. Ryan saw the ball curving foul and made no effort to run until Tim, jumping up and down, yelled:

"Run, dam [illegible] Fair ball! Fair [illegible]

And turning quickly he shook his fist at Tebeau and yelled:

"Cut the ropes, ye spalpeen, cut the ropes."

A wide barn, its mows filled with new hay. The heavy odor of fresh cut clover. A row of horses munching contentedly in the stalls, the harness jingling as they move. The twitter of swallows in the eaves, the heavy breathing of the cows in the basement, the triumphant cackling of a hen proud of her new laid egg. Outside a vista of rain-drenched orchard, lane and field. The steady patter of the shower upon the roof. A pile of hay in the corner, a farm boy lazily content, stretched upon it, with eyes half closed.—Aw, shucks, four hours guard duty in the sun!

WOULD BE ONLY FIVE LEFT ON TWO CLUBS

Senators and Browns Will Be Riddled if All Players of Draft Age Must Serve

Washington, May 24.—Should all the ballplayers in the draft age on the Washington and St. Louis (American League) clubs be called, [illegible] the edict issued by Provost Marshal General Crowder, they would have only five men left between them.

[illegible] and [illegible] are the only members of the Senators who did not have to register, and Austin, [illegible] and [illegible] are the only [illegible] who have passed the age of thirty-one.

Manager Clark Griffith of the Washington club, father of the Bat and Ball Fund, which is providing so much needed baseball paraphernalia for the service teams in this country and abroad, does not believe that the ruling will be so strictly enforced as to kill baseball.

Clan of Stallings Opens Four-Game Series With National League Sensations

Pittsburgh, May 24.—Feeling ex[illegible] as a result of the [illegible] on the Cubs [illegible] George Stallings [illegible] with his Braves for [illegible] with the Pirates.

The Pirates are an even bigger sensation to date in the National League race than the Braves. The [illegible] warriors have been playing top ball all season and occupy a first division berth, whereas it was [illegible] they came West the Braves [illegible] making much of a fuss. [illegible] of late years [illegible] was a [illegible] for a [illegible] different [illegible]

The Braves evened up their first series with the Reds in the gripping battle in Cincinnati by bunching their hits in two fat sessions off Hod Eller and securing four earned tallies, while Matty's men were stopped by Hearn after the third inning. The score was 4 to 3.

Wickland walked and Red Smith shot over the necessary two runs with a line drive into left field.

CARD AT COMMERCIAL A. C.

Main bout: Kid Julian of Rochester, N. Y. vs. Young (Sailor) Sacco of East Boston, twelve rounds.

Second preliminary: Charley (Chick) Miller of South End vs. Battling Morris of South End, six rounds.

Referee: Larry Conley

Starting time: 8 p. m.

By J. P. MURPHY

Kid Julian of Rochester, N. Y., one [illegible] veterans makes his first appearance in Boston tonight when [illegible] Young (Sailor) Sacco of East Boston in the principal [illegible] twelve rounds at the Commercial A. C.

Julian is said to be a combination boxer-fighter, able to punch with the best members of his class and an exceptionally clever defensive performer.

He has met many good men in the featherweight and lightweight classes, including Charley White, Johnny Kilbane, Rocky Kansas, Matt Brock and Johnny Dundee. He stopped Brock in two rounds.

In Sacco the Rochester boy stacks up against a rugged, willing performer who believes in forcing the [illegible] from start to finish.

Sacco's most recent engagement was with Tommy Reagan [illegible] close verdict. His friends, and they are a legion, are supreme[illegible] he will win [illegible]

Chick Hayes, stocky Indianapolis featherweight, engages Kid Henry of Newark, N. J., in the ten round semi final. There will be the usual two preliminaries.

EDDIE RILEY "TOUCHED"; THIS TIME IT'S FOR $381

Pittsburgh, May 24.—When Road Secretary Eddie Riley of the Boston Braves, emerged from his bath in his room at the Hotel Gibson in Cincinnati, yesterday just after shaving himself, he found a sneak thief had rifled his clothes and made away with his pocketbook containing $381.

"I notified the police, as well as the hotel management," stated Riley upon his arrival here today, "and I hope the money turns up. I'm always losing something and $381 is too big a bundle to be divorced from right now, with everything so high."

GOSSIP OF GLOVELAND

By J. P. MURPHY

SAM LANGFORD, who only a few years ago was one of the foremost heavyweights in the country, is at the end of his rope. At least this is the conclusion we draw from recent events. Dispatches from Panama state that Sambo has been knocked out twice within the past two months by Harry Wills of New Orleans.

* * *

LANGFORD HAS been engaged in the ring game for over fifteen years. During that time he met the pick of the best heavyweights. The harder they came the better Tham liked em. He barred none, but scores barred him.

* * *

SAM WAS feared by all despite his small stature. He landed victories so consistently that most of the stars sidestepped him and finally he had to find consolation in the famous Langford League, composed of McVey, Wills, Jeannette and Tham himself. Now he's batting at the bottom of this league.

* * *

LANGFORD NEVER fully recovered from the knockout he received at the hands of Fred Fulton at the Arena last Summer. He was in no condition to fight the mammoth Minnesota Plasterer, but stood up and took it as long as he could and then quit.

JOHNNY DUNDEE, known in private life as John Carraro, has applied for final papers of citizenship. He came here from Italy twenty-two years ago. His first application for citizenship was made in 1915.

* * *

DICK LOADMAN of Lockport, N. Y., who recently stopped Johnny Ertle in three rounds, has signed articles for a twenty-round bout with Pete Kid Herman, generally recognized as world's bantamweight champion. The battle is to be staged at New Orleans, July 4, and is expected to settle once and for all the much discussed bantamweight muddle.

EVER SINCE Ertle won from Kid Williams on a foul, the bantam crown has been more or less tossed around. Williams averred that Ertle's victory was not legitimate and kept on claiming the title. But Ertle refused to relinquish this hold. Herman beat Williams and immediately announced himself king of the little men. Now Loadman declares he is the title holder. All this however should be threshed out to satisfaction when Herman and Loadman come together.

FRANKIE CALLAHAN of New York and West Side Jimmy Duffy will initiate the Hurley boxing law of New Jersey next Monday night. They clash in an eight-round bout at the Armory A. A., Jersey City.

Save the Other $2 for the Red Cross

I'VE sold more than 5,000 hats in one of my stores in a single day. If I had a footman at the door to tuck them in limousines, one by one, I wouldn't sell that many in a SEASON, and I would have to get as much more profit per hat as some of the exclusive high-priced hatters who don't sell 5,000 hats in a year.

Buying hats in thousand dozen lots, and paying cash, and selling direct to you for cash through my own stores, is the reason that I can give the same value for $2 that the other fellow is charging $3, $4 and $5.

If you're willing this season to deprive yourself of the footman—and the luxury of paying for a label when you are buying a hat—I can save you money.

I have all the conventional shapes that the conservative hatter carries—and something different for the young fellow who wants something new.

If you want soft, light, flexible straws—look at this collection in my windows.

Selected Koreas from the Orient $2.85. Distinctive Stoyo Braids from China $2. Flexible Leghorns from Italy $2.85. Soft light Balibuntals $5.85. Wonderful Panamas from South America $5.

Remember, all Straight Brim Straw Hats are still $2.

HARVARD AND YALE COACHES NAME SEATING ORDERS FOR THEIR RACES ON CHARLES

The final seating orders for the Harvard freshman and second crews and their Yale opponents when they will meet tomorrow in the annual Harvard-Yale regatta on the Charles, have been selected.

Coach Haines will row his freshmen in the order they have rowed for the past ten days, while Coach Brown has placed the men who will form the second Crimson [illegible].

Both Yale crews were to be given their first row on the Cambridge course this morning. The Blues' [illegible] crew is [illegible] to be [illegible] believed [illegible] Yale second eight outweighs the Harvard [illegible] by some [illegible].

The makeup of the Yale second boat has been completely shifted from its recent order by Coach Mather Abbott. Austin, stroke oar, has been promoted to the varsity, and Price is rowing in his stead. Dexter, one of the subs, has been placed at No. 6.

[illegible] these two crews, [illegible] among the [illegible] normal [illegible] upper [illegible] undergraduates should have an interesting [illegible].

The rowing orders of the four crews follow:

Harvard 1921: Stroke, M. F. Olmsted; 7, S. Damon; 6, J. N. Borland, 2d; 5, R. M. Sedgwick; 4, G. Sutton; 3, I. F. Pond; 2, J. Sise; bow, W. Davis; cox, E. L. Peirson.

Yale 1921: Stroke, R. L. Hemenway; 7, P. F. Benson; 6, W. F. C. Ewing; 5, D. G. Driscoll; 4, G. S. Rockefeller; 3, C. L. Hare; 2, S. Moulton; bow, D. J. Mall; cox, R. [illegible].

ENGLISH HIGH TEAM IS FAVORED TO WIN MEET

Final scores in the tenth annual outdoor track and field meet of Boston secondary schools were to be recorded at Tech Field, Cambridge, this afternoon.

Finals were to be contested in all events except the running hop, step and jump, which event was completed at Wood Island Park yesterday, with F. J. Flaherty of Commerce the winner.

English High, with thirty-four qualified, were the favorites [illegible] on the outdoor track [illegible]. The one event in which the final has been held, the hop, step [illegible] gave Commerce 7 points, Dorchester High 3 and Hyde Park High 1 point.

ANDOVER TEAM IS FAVORED TO WIN GAMES

Coming Thirty-Three Strong for Harvard Interscholastic Meet in Stadium

Fifteen preparatory schools and high schools have entered men in the annual Harvard Interscholastic meet, which is to be held in the Stadium tomorrow afternoon.

As Exeter, winner of the Yale interscholastic last Saturday, will not compete, the thirty-three entries made by Andover will probably give this team the point trophy.

IN CORBETT'S CORNER

by James J. Corbett

Baxter Sparks, pitching for the Yazoo City (Miss.) team in the Delta (later Cotton States) League, established the world's record for consecutive pitching victories in 1904 when he won twenty-one straight.

The major league pitching record is nineteen straight, established by Tim Keefe in 1888 while with the Giants, and tied in 1912 by Rube Marquard, who then was with the Giants.

The accomplishment of Charlie Radbourne while with the Providence Nationals in 1884 is perhaps the most remarkable in the pitching line that baseball history records.

The great twirler won eighteen straight games for his team. He pitched every day that his team played.

He began his streak on August 7, when he defeated New York, 4 to 2, and didn't suffer defeat until September 7.

During that time five shutout victories were included in his string. His eighteenth triumph was a 3 to 0 victory over Cleveland.

A tie for the consecutive winning record in the American League exists between Walter Johnson and Joe Wood.

Each has a string of sixteen to his credit, and peculiarly enough, both made them [illegible] in 1912. Johnson began his streak July 3 and ended it on August 23. Wood started July 8 and was stopped September 1[illegible].

SOME PITCHING RECORDS.

First no-hit, no-run, no-man-reach-first game, pitched by J. L. Richmond of Worcester Nationals, against Cleveland, on July 12, 1880.

Greatest no-hit game on record [illegible] Fred Toney [illegible] with [illegible] while with Winchester [illegible] Blue Grass League, on May 16, 1909, he [illegible] the Lexington [illegible] hitless and runless for seventeen innings, his team winning 1 to 0.

[illegible] pitchers have pitched [illegible] going more than [illegible] innings. They are:

Thirteen Innings, McIntyre, Brooklyn vs. Pittsburgh, August 1, 1906, won by Pittsburgh [illegible] errors.

Eleven Innings, Kimber, Brooklyn, vs. Toledo, October 4, 1884, game called on account of darkness.

Ten Innings, Wiltse, New York, vs. Philadelphia, July 4, 1908, won by New York, 1 to 0.

Ten Innings, Toney, Cincinnati, vs. Chicago, May 2, 1917; won by Chicago, 2 to 0. In the same game Vaughn, the Cub twirler, held the Reds hitless for nine innings.

Best pitching percentage, .899, turned in by Al Spalding, who pitched sixty-three games for Boston in 1875, which was in the days before the National League.

American League mark, .872, established in 1912 by Joe Wood of the Red Sox in forty-three games. National League, .849, made in 1884 by Radbourne, who worked in seventy-four games that year.

Hon. Benny Leonard Is on Up and Up With His Camp Labors

New York, May 24.—Benny Leonard, lightweight champion of the world, has the distinction of being the only boxer of prominence who has given up his chances of commercializing his title by accepting a position with the government as boxing instructor.

Leonard boxed at two shows on the Pacific Coast, the receipts of which went to camp activities funds. He barely got expenses. Leonard has also promised to box in Chicago at a big Elks' benefit for one of the camp funds.

If Leonard can get away to do a little training he probably will accept an offer made to him recently to box Irish Patsy Cline in New Haven, Ct., July 4.

Promoter Mulvihill told Billy Gibson, Benny's manager, that he would give Leonard a flat sum of $2,000 for his end, the battle to be twenty rounds to a decision.

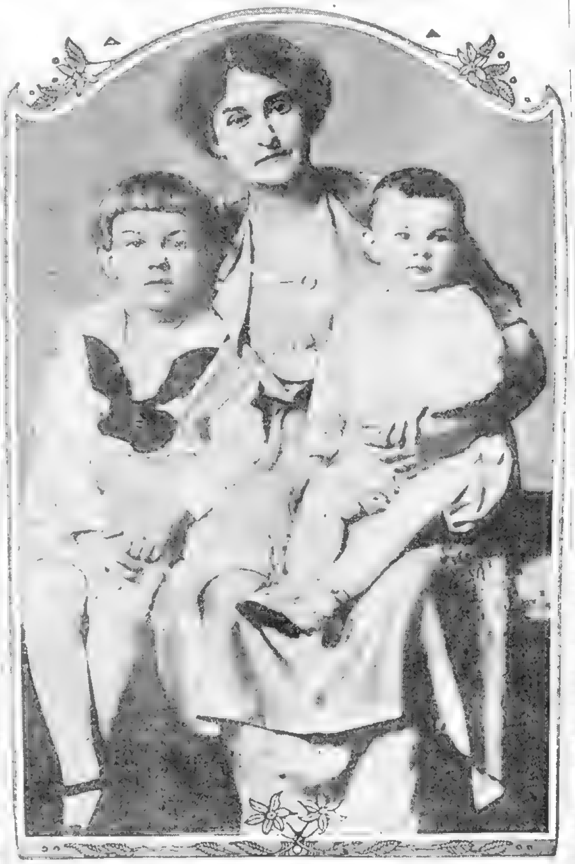
Motherhood and a Career

Ruth Sawyer, Famous Short Story Writer, Finds Her Children an Inspiration



Here is Ruth Sawyer (Mrs. A. C. Durand), first of all the mother of two small persons and then a writer

By Margery Rex

THAT motherhood is an inspiration to a career is strikingly illustrated in the case of Ruth Sawyer [illegible] most recent short stories in Good Housekeeping have added so greatly to her reputation.

This is what Ruth Sawyer, Mrs. A. C. Durand, [illegible] about herself in the June Good Housekeeping:

"There were three things in the beginning of her life for which Ruth Sawyer has been extraordinarily thankful; the early inoculation of fairies [illegible] an Irish nurse, the generous diet of Scotch oatmeal, and the blood inherited from a Lexington Minute-Man. It is what you might call a well-balanced ration to grow on. Irish fairies for imagination and humor, Scotch oatmeal for a good constitution and [illegible]

"There have been threatened stretches of road a plenty in her life, but that has only gone to make the road more interesting and worth the tramping [illegible]

"She was far more interested in the personalities of her children and the developing of their hearts and their fancies than wrestling with their minds, and so she plunged into story-telling.

"That was ten years ago. Since then she has married and started two more [illegible] of Irish fairies and Scotch oatmeal.

"She finds this one of the most absorbing progresses she has yet undertaken, and the time for writing shrinks proportionately."

INEXPENSIVE MOTOR COATS

When the [illegible] is [illegible] covered, catch the folds together with long running stitches of silk. The under side of the hat may also be covered in the same way, or may be faced.

WARTIME RECIPES

Plain Cottage Cheese

Cottage cheese may be served [illegible]

Variations [illegible] chopped [illegible] green peppers, [illegible] or other crisp vegetables with the cheese. Horse radish, onion juice and parsley make a good combination.

Season dry cheese rather well, pack into a buttered earthen or enamel dish, chill it, turn it out on a platter, and serve it in slices like cold veal loaf.

Mix with the cheese a small [illegible] or corned beef [illegible] and season [illegible] Serve this in slices, or turn the mold out on a border of lettuce leaves.

Suggested Menu.—Molded cottage cheese, baked potatoes, lettuce, [illegible] crisp [illegible] tea [illegible] fruit and [illegible]

Cottage Cheese Omelet

Two eggs, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 rounded [illegible] cottage cheese, 1 tablespoon chopped pimentos, 2 tablespoons milk, ⅛ teaspoon soda.

Beat the yolks and whites of eggs separately. Add to the yolks the salt, the milk and the cheese, with which have been blended the pimentos; finally fold in the stiffly beaten whites, pour into a hot frying pan in which has been melted [illegible] half tablespoon fat. Cook [illegible] until the egg has set, place in the oven for a few moments to finish cooking and fold over in the centre. Garnish with parsley. Other seasoning may be used, such as chopped parsley, green pepper or minced ham.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

Not the Right Thing

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Is it right for a young man to correspond with young women from different parts of America without knowing them? They took his address from a magazine article, and now many of them have asked him to exchange photos. Is that proper?

A PUZZLED IDEALIST.

IT is not "proper," and I think it can lead to no particular good, for people from the ends of the earth to come together under circumstances such as you mention. The fact of a lack of introduction is not what counts, but a girl of eighteen should not be writing to strange men. We have to play the game of life according to rule, and the course she is taking is contrary to rule.

A Silly Little Girl

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am twenty-one and in love with a girl of sixteen, who is wearing a diamond given her by a friend of mine who has gone to the front. She does not admit being engaged to my friend. She is also encouraging attention from another friend.

Do you think it would be proper to propose to her? D.

UNLESS that diamond is for a betrothal pledge, this little girl has no business to be wearing such a gift. She seems to be disloyal and you are ready to be equally so.

Don't Scrub Walls and Woodwork

SCRUBBING ruins the tinting and finish, causing walls and woodwork to become soiled more quickly and making them harder to clean.

A better and easier way is to make a paste of

20 MULE TEAM BORAX SOAP CHIPS

by dissolving one cup of the chips in two cups of boiling water. Apply to surface to be cleaned and remove with a wet cloth. The Borax in the chips quickly softens and removes all dirt and stains without scrubbing.

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-Face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine, as this strength is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Advertisement.

McADOO HALTS WATER POWER LEGISLATION

By International News Service.

Washington, May 24.—The administration water power legislation, after a short period of revived interest, was again in the class "doubtful of passage at this session" today.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo is reported to have become alarmed that water power sites needed for the electrification of the railway systems under his control may be leased to private enterprise under the bill to the disadvantage of the railroads.

He is said to have convinced the President that more time for consideration of all possible ultimate results should be given before the bill is placed on the legislative calendar.

Meanwhile the fight to take the leasing power from the hands of the secretaries of war, agriculture and interior and place it in the hands of a non-partisan commission holding office for a long term, continued in the House water power committee.

Robert G. Bulkeley, attorney for the War Industries Board, appeared before the Foreign Affairs Committee today urging the passage of the Flood bill for the leasing of power sites on boundary waters as a war emergency measure. The bill is a companion piece of legislation to the omnibus water power bill in the hands of the water power committee. It would give the leasing power to sites on boundary waters to the Secretary of War.

The Foreign Affairs Committee seemed antagonistic to the measure, and it was doubtful today whether a favorable reports on the bill could be secured without an appearance by Secretary Baker to point out just wherein the bill justifies the title of a war measure.

MRS. SHUMAN HONORED BY PHILOMATHEIA CLUB

Members of the Philomatheia Club gave a luncheon to Mrs. Edwin A. Shuman at the Copley-Plaza. Mrs. Augustus Tilsen, newly elected president of the club, presided at the affair, which was a surprise to Mrs. Shuman. The Rev. Michael Jessup, SJ., of Boston College, made an address of welcome and an entertainment was given by Miss Helen M. Rotch, pianist; Mrs. Daniel V. McIsaac, soprano; Mrs. Conrell Ward, pianist; Miss Grace Dignan, reader; Mrs. Mark H. Lyons and Miss Loretta McEwen, soloists.

Mrs. Shuman two years ago founded the club, which is an auxiliary to the philanthropic work conducted for the benefit of students at Boston College. She was presented many beautiful floral tributes.

ELSIE JANIS AT FRONT; DANCES FOR SOLDIERS

By NEWTON C. PARKE,

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army in France, May 24.—Elsie Janis, famous American actress, made her debut on the "Battle Front Circuit" Tuesday afternoon and faced her first helmeted audience.

In a little village on the Toul front, within easy range of Hindenburg's gunners, Miss Janis danced and sang and told stories, finishing up by doing a lively fox trot with four coatless doughboys after she had forced one to discharge a huge chew of tobacco.

"That's one thing I must draw the line at," she exclaimed.

One of Miss Janis' stories was interrupted by fire from anti-aircraft guns against Boche airplanes somewhere in the vicinity.

The stage was a squared ring at the top of a hill on which many soldier boxing bouts had taken place. The spotlight was "Old Sol."

Miss Janis worked so hard to please her soldier audience that the perspiration streamed from her face and her cheeks were red as berries from her exertions.

At least a thousand doughboys were perched on red-tiled roofs of adjoining houses, crammed in trucks and seated aloft in the branches of trees. They were jammed like subway rush-hour travelers about the ringside, and they surely did give Elsie one regular army welcome.

The program was opened with a bunch of stories, and then the actress sang songs, accompanied by a Y. M. C. A. man on a thing that once passed as a piano.

PRESIDENT WILSON

—In his speech at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, last Saturday night, said: "I summon you in the next week to say how much and how sincerely you sustain the hearts of the world."

The Red Cross is making a tremendous drive to sustain these hearts of the world. You can better appreciate the wonderful work of this organization by seeing "HEARTS OF THE WORLD" at the MAJESTIC THEATRE.

See the Red Cross workers on the battlefields of France; see the Red Cross ambulances dashing through the streets of the French villages; see One Million fighting men, twenty thousand horses, miles of artillery, squadrons of airplanes; see real war on the actual battlefields.

"HEARTS OF THE WORLD" is the greatest human document ever conceived. D. W. GRIFFITH, its producer, spent eighteen months in securing the remarkable scenes on the French front. It is proving the greatest sensation known in the history of screen drama.

"HEARTS OF THE WORLD" is presented at the MAJESTIC THEATRE every afternoon at 2 o'clock and every evening, INCLUDING SUNDAY, at 8 o'clock. Prices, matinees, 25c to $1. Evenings, 25c to $1.50. Management Wm. Elliott, F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest.

Americans Proud of Italians as Comrades in Arms

Third Anniversary of Italy's Entry Into the War and Her Abandonment of the Triple Alliance

Today is the third anniversary of the entry of Italy into the war against the great swashbuckling conspiracy of Germany.

The abandonment by Italy of the Triple Alliance was a great event in the world's history. Italy, growing more united, more instinct with a national consciousness, found such an alliance contrary to her interest, contrary to her national principles, contrary to her sympathies and sentiments. Forced upon her against her will by the intrigues of Bismarck, and now become utterly intolerable, the unnatural alliance broke at the first test.

No nation is making greater sacrifices than Italy in the tremendous struggle to make the world safe for democracy. The Italian people are rebuilding their national greatness upon old foundations laid deeper than that of any other race in Europe save the Greeks. Some distinguished and thoughtful man once said that the greatest asset of power to a people is a great history, if it is not too ancient. The Italians are making a great modern history. It is a wonderful national renaissance.

In many respects the Italians are faced with greater difficulties than those that face any other of the allied nations. They are carrying their burden splendidly.

Americans are proud of their Italian comrades in arms just as they are proud of their fellow-citizens of Italian blood settled [illegible] America, who are marching and fighting with the rest of us under [illegible] flag.

reat Need in Community

[illegible] England Should Provide Day Home for Young Children of Absent Soldiers While the Mothers Are Working

Mr. Frye of our staff calls our attention to a great need in this community. He tells the story better than we can tell it, so we publish it just as he has given it to us:

Out in the Allston district of Boston there is a little mother and three children who belong to a rapidly increasing class created by the Great War.

They constitute the family of a soldier who has gone off to the war and left them to live on the pittance furnished by the government out of his pay. This is one of hundreds of such cases in this city.

Naturally the mother has to work by day. She works in a munitions factory in Cambridge, and she goes away each morning.

What becomes of the children?

Here is the saddest part of it. Every morning early, before she goes away to the hot factory, this little mother dresses the oldest little girl and takes her to a kindergarten, where she spends the day. But the other two tots are too young to go to a kindergarten. There is no other place where they can go.

They spend the day alone in the tenement under the general charge of the janitor's wife.

But janitors' wives in apartment houses are busy women, and they have more to do than run up three or four flights of stairs every little while to oversee other people's children. As a result these two little people are all alone in the stuffy tenement all day long. Imagine the length of the hours! What do they do when they want a drink of water or other attentions?

All through the long hours those little kids are there alone, locked in. Will it be any wonder if when they grow up they have nervous fears of solitude, of being alone, of being locked in? And how can that mother do her work with any sort of efficiency thinking all day about those locked in tots?

Here is an opportunity for the people of New England to help. Why not hire a building and equip it with a few toys, place it in charge of a few nurses and open it for the use of the children of soldiers whose mothers have to work?

In every way it is as patriotic a duty as to furnish comforts for the soldiers themselves.

This indeed is a great need. The wonder is that it has not long ago been met by ample provision out of public funds. The AMERICAN will spare no effort to correct this omission—unintentional, of course, but none the less serious.

Du Pont's Interesting Energy

He Appears to Be a Builder, the Kind of Citizen the Country Needs

Copyright, 1918, by the Star Company.

Visitors to New York saw the world's biggest, most expensive and perfect office building rising rapidly toward the sky in lower Broadway. A. T. duPont was building the Equitable Building.

The country heard that the Boldt family had gone out of business, and sold the Waldorf Hotel.

A. T. duPont had bought it, and announced his intention to make it better and more useful than it ever was, because a city as big as New York, and the energetic people from all over the country coming to New York, needed as many first class hotels as possible.

Now you read that the Grand Central Palace in New York is sold—and again A. T. duPont is the buyer.

It is the largest show building, the largest available building in New York, and it is announced that duPont means to make it useful, now and after the war, in procuring for the United States the greatest amount of trade in foreign countries possessed by any country in the world.

Exhibitions that will encourage trade, show Americans what foreign lands WANT, show the people from South America and elsewhere what we HAVE—such exhibitions are to be held and organized by duPont in the huge Grand Central Palace Building.

This kind of work, organizing in advance for the trade that will follow the war, is what the country needs. It will supply labor, skilled and unskilled, to keep busy the men that, let us hope, will soon be released from the army.

An energetic person, apparently, is this A. T. duPont, who retired from the powder business, got out of the line of manufacture that means destruction, and has been devoting his money and restless energy to CONSTRUCTION—from building the greatest, most perfect business building in the world to running of one of the biggest, mostly highly developed farms.

He who does well should be praised—duPont, an active citizen, interesting himself in real work and not afraid of big things, is one to praise.

MRS. WILSON WOODROW'S ARTICLE

Those Who Think Youth Seedtime and Old Age the Harvest Are Pernicious, False and Foolish—No Chimney Corner for the Active

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

I READ an article the other day written by a woman who signed herself "A Superfluous Old Lady." In it she asked of the public in general:

"Will you not help us to come out of our corners and be a part of the great world again? Is there really no important work for us to do? We are all mortally tired of the corners, of being bossed around by our dear, grownup children, of being dead while we are still alive."

Horror of Age

Her words began to haunt me. I found my mind reverting to them again and again. I could not imagine the woman who had written them being either "bossed around" or, as she says later, belonging to that army of old ladies so "squelched and sat upon by their superior children that their unhappiness is enough to break one's heart."

Even as a child I had a horror of old age, its decrepitude, its ugliness, its weight of woe. It is so difficult to understand. Nature offers no counterparts for it and no symbols of it. Autumn wraps herself in the splendors of scarlet and gold, and Winter offers a contrast of sombre mysterious beauty.

But this horror of old age was obliterated for me by gradually acquiring a mental picture gallery of women who were old in years but who possessed in full measure the only real youth there is, the youth of the heart.

Too Busy to Age

No one could have called them superfluous nor have granted them the patronizing and grudging right to live. They had too much to give, and they gave royally. They were too busy to be decrepit or feeble; too mellow, too finely tempered, too tolerant for harsh criticism or censure; too wise and too philosophical to be cowed by any grief. They were women who had proved under fire that they were still the masters of their fate and still the captains of their souls.

Some of the most potent and molding forces in my life have been elderly women who never dreamed of being molding forces or of exerting an active influence, but, nevertheless, could not fail of doing so because of what they were and what they stood for.

It should be the gift and the grace of elderly women to inspire the younger generation, not so much the extremely youthful perhaps, because extreme youth rightly enough wants to explore, to find its own way and enjoy it; but they should be a lamp to the feet of the women in the late twenties and the thirties and the forties who are perplexed in the confusing mazes of life and worn with its struggle.

I firmly believe that this idea that youth is the seed-time and old age the harvest is a pernicious and false and foolish one. It is the only period of enjoyment and achievement, and that old age is the season when from an arm chair in a chimney corner one may alternate between contemplation of past errors and mistakes and the ladelling out of platitudes and sage advice. That is not age at all; it is senility.

The chimney corner existence belongs to those who have allowed their minds to rust and their bodies to decay. If you sit and think rheumatism and Bright's disease and arterio-sclerosis all day you will probably have one of those troubles.

Why You Lost

Why is a doormat? Because it laid itself down for other people to wipe their feet on. If it had adopted the air of a prayer-rug, it would have been hung on the wall in the drawing room and proudly exhibited to guests.

Madame you are cowed and brow-beaten because you have allowed those about you to dictate your method of life, your mode of thought, your manner of action, instead of firmly, sweetly, smilingly making them understand that you meant to do exactly as you pleased, no matter how absurd your would-be guardians, the younger generation, might think it.

Always a Puzzle

I never could understand why woman's grownup children so often consider themselves divinely empowered to guard and guide their parent's life. Why, for instance, if mother wants to wear red roses in her bonnet instead of the eternal pansies, should grown-up daughter remonstrate and nag until they finally compromise on petunias, which mother has always detested? Or why, if mother wants to marry for the second or third time, or change her religion or take swimming lessons, should the matter be discussed pro and con for days in the family circle? It surely is entirely mother's own affair.

And today, when every human being, man, woman or child, is gladly doing his bit to help win the war, why, to consider oneself superfluous no matter what one's years is just as much of a delusion as to imagine oneself Mary Queen of Scots or Charlemagne.

Teachers Thank American

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

At the annual meeting of the Boston Elementary Teachers' Club the members voted to extend to the Boston AMERICAN their thanks for the interest manifested in the Boston School Committee legislative measure for additional appropriations for school purposes. The teachers gratefully appreciate the time and space given by the Boston AMERICAN to their cause.

The Knockers

By JAMES AUSTIN MURRAY

IF all these sinners were sincere
And saintly, as they would appear;
If truth were used in lieu of lies
By those who carp and criticize;
Say! wouldn't life be grand?
Good will would flow throughout the land
And bless the earth, like Summer rain
Sweetens the flowers and the grain.

If men who rank among the great
Would cease to rock our Ship of State;
If all would lend a helping hand
To him we've chosen to command—
Stand by him loyally,
'Twould help our cause tremendously.
It is the sneer and knock, you know,
That "gums the wheels" and helps the foe.

To action, then! The die is cast,
The time for idle words has passed;
Our sons are fighting over there
And we at home must do our share.
If you MUST talk, don't knock;
If you can't row the boat, don't rock!
Go overboard, or else sit tight
And let the men of action fight!

SWEET TEARS DO EXIST AFTER ALL

By Winifred Black

A MAN who was very rich died in Washington the other day.

When his will was read there was something in it that astonished the legatees.

I have observed that wills quite often do this—haven't you? I wonder why?

Is it possible that we live right in the same house with people year in and year out, day up and day down, and never really know much about them until they die, and we read their wills?

Are they afraid of us that they never show their real character until we read it after they're gone? Or are we afraid of them, and hold them as far away as we can so that we'll be sure not to be expected to understand them at all?

Anyhow, the Washington man had his say after he was gone, and his "say" was that he wanted none of his family to put on mourning, or to give other outward or conventional expressions of grief at his death.

Outward or conventional expressions of grief!

Poor man, why did he dread that so?

Was he one of those who believed death to be a great release from bondage, and who cannot bear that hypocrisy which mourns instead of rejoices?

Did he think it wicked to show rebellion against a decree of fate?

Or did he believe that whatever happened one should smile and smile and smile?

Or perhaps——

"I Know Why"

Once I was at the funeral of a young and beautiful woman who had died under tragic circumstances. We all were doing everything in our power to keep her young and devoted husband from going to pieces entirely, but at the funeral the minister who conducted the services seemed to be doing his best to break down the hard-won composure of the young husband.

He recalled the beauty and the innocence and the lovely character of the poor young woman who lay so still, smiling so sweetly in the coffin. He spoke of the little child she left motherless and of the husband she left bereft, and he did all this in the most dramatic and emotional way possible, and we all wished he wouldn't and wondered why he did.

When we were going home we spoke of it together as friends do and the rich man among us smiled and said:

"I know why he did it—he's a rich man's preacher."

And when we asked him what he meant by that, he said:

"He is always preaching sermons at the funerals of rich men or of rich women, and I suppose he thinks it's his duty to give them a chance to cry at the funeral.

"He knows they're having a dreadful time to keep from wondering about the will."

I thought that this, coming from the lips of the rich man, was one of the saddest things I'd ever heard in my life.

And yet he himself was beloved as few men are beloved—not for his money, but for himself. How terrible it must be to look at all the world with such suspicion!

Some Tears Sweet

The man who left it in his will that none of his family should mourn or give any outward expressions of grief at his death—oh, how could he lay such an injunction upon the hearts of those he left behind him?

Tears are the natural outlet of sorrow. I never saw any one who cried bitterly in grief go mad.

To others—those who seek to hold themselves too strictly to a rule of control—their stories sometimes turn out to be very different.

I hope I shall never be too old, or too brave, or too self-controlled, or too cold, or too careless, or too strong—to cry. If I ever do grow to be so, I hope those who love me will cry when I am gone.

For there are some tears that are sweeter than all the laughter and all the smiles in the world.

NAMELESS MOUNTAIN FOUND BY WOMAN

By Madge Oldring

LAST January a Chicago woman left that metropolis in search of snow, wind, weather, storms, sleet, ice and chilly atmosphere.

To some it may seem as though she might have found at least a touch of those things by exploring almost any section of the arctic Michigan avenue.

"But there weren't any northern lights on Michigan avenue," says this extraordinary woman, who is Mrs. Laurie R. Frazeur.

And so Mrs. Frazeur, who is a member of the American Alpine Club and a veteran mountain climber, set out to do what no woman has before achieved. She went over the pass of Mount Robson in the wild white Winter weather. Other women have crossed the pass in the bland Summer time, but nobody ever seemed to care for the trip in Winter.

Build Their Tepees

"Nevertheless, it was wonderful," says Mrs. Frazeur. "We built our tepees in the pine forests on old caribou trails. At night we could hear the caribou switching in the forest, and we found the dainty tracks of unknown animals in the snow. We saw the ptarmingan in its white Winter coat, and the delicate water ousel, that fairy bird, diving in the icy spray.

"We saw the northern lights play upon the shining white mountains, and saw the banners, made by the wind, flinging out the powdery snow, and watched them glow rose in the sunset, then gold, then a ghostly blue white in the moonlight.

"We never met any living thing but Indians, wolves and caribou. We traveled on snowshoes, and wore five pairs of socks, two pairs of moccasins, three or four shirts and the heavy suits of northern woodsmen. Our beds were pine boughs, piled on the snow, and we wrapped up in Hudson Bay blankets. Cold? Oh, no, just cool. And the cheering thing about it is that the climate is too cold for germs, and there is not the slightest danger of catching colds or pneumonia. You might freeze to death, but you would never have a cold.

"Mount Robson is 13,068 feet high, the highest mountain in the Canadian Rockies.

"I went over the pass for the first time last Summer, and was so charmed by Mount Robson that I was bound to see it in Winter. We got our outfit at Jasper. The guide was Donald Philips, who, with five other men, made the first ascent of Mount Robson in 1909.

"We went horseback up the valley of the 1,000 falls, north over the continental divide, up the Great Smoky River, north from the head waters of the divide, near 'The Piece,' and ascended the Short River. I am the first woman who has gone up that river. We crossed the Great Smoky twice on snowshoes, and as the ice twirled around I felt that Eliza's excursion in bare feet must have been a simpler matter.

"Near Mount Robson was a majestic, white, nameless peak, 10,000 feet high. The guide and I climbed to the summit and built our cairn there. A cairn is a rude pile of stones built by the first explorer of a mountain to mark his work. We scratched our names on a rock and put it in the cairn. Some time I may go through the formality of applying to the government to have the mountain named for me.

Likes Adventures

"Why do I climb mountains? Oh, to clear the cobwebs out of my brain, and keep from getting too bookish. As teacher of Latin and Greek I hear all about how Caesar crossed the Rubicon and the Rhine, but I like to get out myself into the adventures of crossing the Great Smoky and seeing the marvels of the present day."

Mrs. Frazeur has climbed all the highest peaks on the Pacific coast, Mount Whitney, Mount Rainier, Mount Shasta, Mount St. Helenes, Mount Boher, Mount Hood, Mount Adams and Mount Lytle and others.
